

Peruvian Regime Assailed in Press For Nixon Attack

Vice President May End Link With Students

BY STANFORD BRADSHAW
Lima, Peru.—The stones and spit which greeted Vice President Richard Nixon at Peru's oldest university brought down condemnation today on the Peruvian government from one of the capital's chief newspapers.

It appeared the violence at San Marcos university yesterday might put a stop to Nixon's face-to-face attempts to convince Latin-American students the United States is a better bet than the Soviet Union. A round-table conference with Equadorean students and labor leaders—scheduled after Nixon's arrival later today in Quito—was cancelled.

Sources close to the vice president said in the three nations remaining on his tour he might abandon his custom of visiting the leading universities to talk with students.

Attacks Rock Lima
Nixon had been warned that his visit to the Lima university might result in leftist-inspired violence but he went ahead. A rock grazed his neck, and a U. S. secret service agent had a tooth chipped by a flying stone as students spat on the party and jeered: "Nixon get out."

As Nixon returned to his hotel on foot, another group demonstrated against him.

The outbursts against the vice president shook Lima. The influential newspaper El Comercio said the police should have taken steps to prevent the outbreaks. Opposition papers already had criticized the government for failing to prevent similar—but milder—anti-Nixon demonstrations the day before.

Nixon made no official fuss but Foreign Minister Raul Porras quickly expressed official and personal apologies. The government also replaced the wreath Nixon had laid on the

150 Killed in Train Crash

Over 300 Hurt; Brazil's President Orders Inquiry

Rio de Janeiro.—President Juscelino Kubitschek today ordered an investigation into the crash of two commuter trains in which an estimated 150 persons were killed. It was the second disaster in as many months on the government's Central do Brasil line and the worst train wreck in Brazil's history.

Some 300 more passengers were injured last night when one electric commuter train plowed into the rear of another. Apparently all the victims were Brazilians.

Rescue workers toiled through the misty night to pull the dead, dying and injured from the twisted metal cars piled along embankments 10 miles north of Rio de Janeiro. Thousands raged the scene of the wreck. At nearby stations other angry commuters noted in protest.

Sixty-seven passengers were killed March 7 when three Central do Brasil trains rammed together.

Giant Airliner Lands With Defective Wheel

65 Aboard Unhurt as Craft Skids to Stop On Foam-Covered Charlotte, N. C., Runway

Charlotte, N. C.—A giant airliner skidded to a stop, an hour when he touched down its nose plowing in a foam-covered runway. A canvas chute unfurled from a rear door and passengers started sliding to the earth.

"How did I feel? I'll tell you," said George England of Detroit, brushing off his clothes. "I prayed to God. That's all you can do at a time like that."

England was the first of 65 persons off the 4-engine craft, an Eastern Air Lines Super Constellation on a Detroit to Miami flight, after the emergency landing yesterday.

Not one of the 58 passengers and 7 crew members was hurt. A defective nose wheel which could not be raised or lowered from its half-down position, caused the emergency.

Passengers Calm
Capt. J. J. Randall of Miami discovered the faulty wheel just as he took off from here at noon for Atlanta.

The passengers were told about the difficulty. "Everybody in the plane was calm," said Jacqueline Wingfield of Richmond, Va., one of three stewardesses on the flight. "They acted calm, anyhow."

The airliner circles for three hours, burning fuel. The stewardesses served lunch to the passengers and prepared for the landing, anchoring down heavy objects, opening doors and windows, storing loose gear in lavatories.

Airport crews laid a layer of firefighting foam on the runway. Fire trucks and ambulances were ready. Fire trucks took stations along the runway. Randall estimated he slowed the giant liner to about 70 miles, an hour when he touched down—instead of the usual 90 to 100 miles an hour.

The plane ran about a quarter-mile down the runway before Randall shifted the weight forward. The nose wheel touched the concrete and snapped back into its housing. Then the plane tilted over and the plane scooted along for about 1,000 feet.

Watchers cheered and applauded as the plane halted.

Stephenville, Newfoundland.—Seventy-one passengers and crew—most of them dependents of U. S. armed forces personnel—escaped serious injuries today when a Flying Boxcar plane crash-landed at nearby Harmon field.

U. S. Air Force officials said a nose wheel collapsed as the plane was landing on its way from Europe to a New York base.

Favor Federal Aid Fund for Airports

Washington.—The senate commerce committee voted today to authorize $512 million in federal aid to airports over a 5-year period.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), the sponsor, says the bill is designed to create some jobs immediately and to help cities get their airfields ready for jet planes.

It was opposed by the administration in testimony given by Louis S. Rothschild, under secretary of commerce for transportation.

The bill is an authorization only. The actual money would be voted in separate legislation.

The committee voted unanimously to recommend the bill to the senate.

The bill would extend the present 50-50 matching formula for the federal airport grants. It would extend the present program through fiscal year 1963 at a $190 million annual level for the four years 1960-1963. Present law authorizes $63 million annually.

It also would increase the $65 million allotment for fiscal 1963, starting July 1, to $100 million. And it would add a special $75 million fund for 1959.

City-County Civil Defense Heads Feud

'Laxness,' Beltrone Charges; 'No Cooperation,' Schiltz Replies

A feud between the county coordinator and the Appleton director has split civil defense activity and resulted in two warring factions.

As a result, during the Tuesday-Wednesday national alert, Outagamie County Civil Defense Coordinator Andrew J. Schiltz reported he had heard nothing from Appleton.

Appleton Civil Defense Director Robert C. Beltrone, Jr., said he saw no point in participating in what he called false reports and went to Stevens Point, the state civil defense headquarters, to complain to Gen. Ralph Olson, state defense head, and to inspect the state control center.

Letter Ready
Beltrone today is preparing a letter to early today Gen. Olson after a long complaining illness.

Death came a short time after midnight in defense and at his family asking that Olson contact the Outagamie county board.

Schiltz expressed surprise that Beltrone had "left his post during the alert," but commented that he has had no cooperation from Beltrone since the city's director was appointed last February.

Beltrone charged that Schiltz envoy to the Kremlin he wrote had no meetings in Opel, 1958 the national alert, until April 29, a week before the tests.

Green Lake.—P. Farm wife Mrs. Oscar Schulz spotted a beast sunning itself Thursday. After a quick look she dashed for the house.

Sheriff Leo Bartol said, "I'd love to get a shot at it with my riot gun."

"From the description given by Mrs. Schulz," the sheriff added, "it was a cougar. But we don't know where it service. Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, says the draft will continue indefinitely, "as long as there is danger in the world."

There was talk in Ripon, in adjoining Fond du Lac county, of organizing a hunting party. Asked yesterday if that meant the draft would remain for the rest of our lives, Hershey quip "There's a hundred places in that area where it could have of mine. I'll not fiddle with it. We'll never find it."

Mrs. Schulz was on the way to the pump house when she spotted the beast soaking up state selective service director the sun behind the barn. Ap- told newsmen:

"What planning can you do in a week?" Beltrone asked.

Schiltz replied the meeting was held to find what men and facilities county directors had available and to get local directors' thinking on the alert. He added that all information

House Group Cuts Funds of Two Agencies

Reduces Request From Eisenhower By $15 Million

Washington.—P.—The house appropriations committee today cut $15,412,738 from new funds President Eisenhower had requested to finance the state department and the U. S. information agency (USIA).

In a bill sent to the house for debate next week, it recommended that the state department get along on $192,859,353 and the USIA on $101,750,000 in new funds during the year starting July 1. The president had requested $199,990,151 for the state department and $110,032,000 for the USIA.

The committee allotment is $10,417,953 less than current year appropriations for the state department and $5,550,000 more than the USIA received this year.

Other Reductions
The committee trimmed $1,600,000 from the $7,600,000 the president had sought for his special international cultural, artistic and athletic program which finances overseas good will tours of American entertainers.

It cut a token $780,000 from the $230,190,000 requested for the justice department and $699,600 from the $41,402,890 sought for the federal judiciary.

A formal report accompanying the committee's recommendations was devoid of the caustic criticism directed at the state department and USIA in past years.

The committee said the state department had not proceeded with the opening of all of the new consular and reporting posts abroad for which funds had been appropriated last year. It specifically earmarked an unspecified portion of 1959 money for opening 12 of these posts.

It questioned the availability of state department maintenance of a language school located in a villa on the Riviera at Nice, France.

But it found little else to criticize.

$150,000 Loss in Milwaukee Fire
Milwaukee.—P.—A spectacular 3-alarm fire in a wholesale florist's building—filled with decorations in preparation for a big Mother's day rush—caused an estimated $150,000 damage today.

Fire Chief Edward Wischer estimated the damage to the Roach & Maloney, Co., whose large brick and masonry building is located on the east bank of the Milwaukee river in downtown Milwaukee.

Wischer said the building contained 150 cases of foamy material with the draft. Without decorations material with the draft, it would look to them highly inflammable ethylene base. In addition, there were large amounts of artificial flowers and paper mache.

Bodies of the couple were found the next day in a storm cave Starkweather, who has admitted 11 slayings, is charged particularly with the Jensen killing.

Rep. Powell, Harlem Leader, Faces Federal Charges of Tax Evasion

New York.—P.—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., Harlem Democrat and church leader, has been indicted on charges of federal income tax evasion and aiding in preparing a fraudulent tax return for his wife, Pia Hazel Scott.

Powell

A special federal grand jury, impaneled 16 months ago yesterday returned a 3-count indictment against the 49-year-old Powell, Negro member of congress from New York since 1945.

Powell supported President Eisenhower and the GOP in the 1956 election, assertedly over his displeasure with his own party's position on the racial segregation issue.

The indictment was expected to bolster the position of six of seven Harlem district leaders, who reportedly are out to drop, stormy career of the special

Powell from the Democratic ticket this year. Powell has said he is going to run, regardless of the outcome.

Of the counts against Powell one charged tax evasion in a joint 1952 return with his wife. The Powells reported a net income of $5,252. The government charged that the true net was $9,952 and that they owed taxes of $1,663.

A second count states that Mrs. Scott advised by her husband, set her net income for 1951 at $3,815, but that her net was really $9,101. A third count covers alleged violation of the federal criminal code against aiding and abetting the preparation of a fraudulent return for another person.

Ike May Ask More Liberal Tax Program

Report of Write-Offs for Industry Circulate at Advisory Council; Said to be Getting Serious Thought

Hot Springs, Va. — Word that the Eisenhower administration may ask congress to liberalize tax write-offs for all industry circulated today at a conference of Secretary of Commerce Weeks and his business advisory council (BAC).

A government source reported privately the plan is getting serious consideration in Washington. Weeks said last week it would provide "the greatest shot in the arm of business," but he did not forecast any administration action.

The idea was expected to get a strong boost from the closed 2-day sessions at which Weeks, Secretary of Defense McElroy and other top government officials are meeting with about 100 members of the BAC.

Tax Purposes

Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) has introduced a bill which would permit companies to write off in depreciation for tax purposes larger percentages of the cost of new plants and equipment in the first years of their life.

The device was used in the Korean war to stimulate expansion of defense — essential industries: its advocates today contend that its revival would create jobs by encouraging the replacement of obsolete machinery, and the tooling up for new and improved products.

Reporters Barred

The council's membership includes scores of the biggest names in American industry, and a discussion of possible anti-recession moves is high on its agenda.

Though reporters are barred from all sessions, several members readily told reporters—not for quotation—that:

1. They favor prompt legislation to ease the depreciation allowance on new plants, machinery and equipment as an incentive to industry to invest in plant modernization and tooling-up for new products and processes.

2. Many also favor the lowering of excise taxes on autos, transportation and other depressed segments of industry, to bring prices within reach of more consumers.

3. A sizable bloc of industry believes that recovery from the recession may be farther away than "late summer or early fall," as Weeks has predicted. Several industrialists said they expect no appreciable upturn until early 1959. But others agreed with Weeks that the bottom already has been reached.

Cut Income Tax?

There was wide divergence of opinion among the corporation heads on whether the government should cut income taxes, a substantial number took exception to the administration view that this would bring big federal deficits for years to come and invite worse inflation.

But auto industry spokesmen have declared for that course, and that industry is represented in the BAC by such influential members as Harlow Currier, president of General Motors corporation, and Henry Ford II and Ernest R. Breech, president and board chairman respectively for Ford Motor company.

Another industrialist called for a substantial income tax cut, saying: "You've got to take the dare and do something. You must accept the risk of a $5 or $10 billion additional deficit. If you don't and the economy doesn't turn around, you face bigger unemployment and serious consequences for the whole free world."

On the other hand a prominent financier said it is "unrealistic" to call for tax reduction, except as a last-resort expedient, because of the government's serious fiscal situation. He went on:

"I'd like to see the excises reduced and some action on depreciation. But I'm afraid the administration couldn't propose those measures to congress without opening a Pandora's box for tax-cutting proposals."

State College Professor Wins Court Decision

Dr. George Ball Determined to Fight Dismissal

Madison — Armed with a court decision Dr. George Ball, former professor of education at Superior State College, said Thursday night he will press the fight against his discharge.

Ball was fired last year by Jim Dan Hill, college president, who was supported by the state board of college regents after a series of hearings. Hill said that Ball was discharged because of "inefficiency, failure to cooperate, conduct unbecoming a teacher, and incompatibility."

Ball appealed to circuit court here and Thursday Judge Richard Bardwell said the professor was ousted illegally, because "in our judgment Dr. Ball was not afforded a fair hearing to which he was entitled."

Teaches In Iowa

Now teaching at Iowa State Teachers college, Ball said Thursday night at Cedar Rapids that he was gratified to learn of the decision. But he declined further comment until he has a chance to read the decision. He added that he intends to see the matter through to its end.

There was no comment from the regents. Board secretary Eugene McPhee, of Madison, director of state colleges, said he had not seen the decision, and that the ruling apparently had been released to the press ahead of the litigants because the attorney general's office hadn't seen a copy either. The attorney general is the board's legal counsel.

The normal procedure, McPhee said, would be for the attorney general to study the decision and then make a recommendation to the regents as to what future action, if any, should be taken. The regents will hold their next meeting in Madison May 22.

Bee Swarms Hold City Under Siege

Sacramento, Calif. — The bees are coming back to Sacramento.

And unlike the swallows who come back to Capistrano every year the bees are nothing but a nuisance.

City Poundmaster George P. Martin, who used to dispose of the busy insects until an especially vicious swarm put him in the hospital, says he is getting a dozen calls a day about bees.

One was from a motorist who had been buzzed at a downtown intersection by a swarm of several thousand bees. Another was from a downtown office, reporting a swarm on its window sill.

The newborn bees, semi-dormant in rural areas during the winter, leave the hives in the spring in swarms of 10,000 to 15,000 to seek new homes. Many descend on the city.

"There seem to be more and more of them every year," Martin said.

Martin's usual method of getting rid of the bees—referring them to beekeepers— isn't working this year. The beekeepers have all they can handle.

And Martin, after his losing bout with the swarms, says he isn't about to tangle with them again—nor does he have the facilities. The high-rented boxes to put the insects in before disposing of them.

So Martin says, Sacramentoans will just have to wait until the bees "hive up" for the summer and get out of people's way.

Donations Continue to Grow for Pilot's Son

Couple Whose Anniversary Falls on Day Flier Died Sends Contribution, Note

Madison — "Our only regret is that our contribution cannot bring the boy's daddy back," wrote a couple donating to a fund for the son of an air force pilot killed after guiding his disabled jet plane away from a residential area.

The note accompanying the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Carlstrom, added:

"He shall be remembered in our prayers each May 5, as this day was our second anniversary of being happily married—and had it not been for him, it could have been our last."

Prepared to Land

First Lt. Gerald C. Stull, 26, was approaching for a landing at Truax Air Force base when his F102 fighter lost power in a flameout as it plummeted toward a cluster of homes on the city's east side. Stull, a native of Beaumont, Texas, dived the plane into Lake Monona. Apparently when sure he would miss the homes, he fired the ejection device, but was too low for his parachute to open.

Stull left a widow, 22, and a son who was three months old on the day his father died.

The welfare and education fund for the boy, George Clark, was organized by the Wisconsin State Journal. Through Thursday night cash gifts amounted to $1,136, plus additional unlisted pledges.

"Mrs. Stull and her boy left Thursday night for the home of her parents in Valdosta, Ga., before leaving she said:

"The trust fund for my baby will give me security and confidence in the years to come and will help me give him the education his father would have wanted him to have."

Her Plans

As for her own plans, Mrs. Stull said, "I will either go back to school and take something like stenography or get a job right away. I want to keep myself occupied." She and Stull were married a year and a half ago.

In addition to gifts from individuals there were also contributions from two firms, either of which could have been in the direct line of the disabled plane had Stull decided to bail out and let it continue on its own course.

Release Last War Criminals Held by U. S.

Four SS Colonels, Guard Taken From Landsberg Prison

Landsberg, Germany — The last four German war criminals held by the U. S. army—three former SS (elite guard) colonels and a concentration camp guard—were released today from Landsberg prison.

The prison, in which Adolf Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" while serving a brief sentence after the unsuccessful Nazi uprising of 1923, will be returned to German control late this month. It once held 1,500 war criminals.

Last in Custody

Britain and France already have released the last of the prisoners in their custody.

The Russians released their last German war criminals in 1955-56, after Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's visit to Moscow.

Only the three surviving major war criminals—Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess, Munitions Czar Albert Speer and Hitler youth Leader Baldur Von Schirach—remain imprisoned. They are held in a Berlin prison under joint American, British, French and Soviet auspices.

Three of the four who walked out today originally wore the red jacket of prisoners awaiting execution. They are Dr. Martin Sandberger, 46; Ernst Biberstein, 59; and Adolf Ott, 53. Former SS colonels, they once were commando group leaders. The fourth man released was former Sgt. Otto Brinkmann, 47, a one-time concentration camp guard originally sentenced to life imprisonment.

All were convicted by U. S. military courts in 1947 and 1948.

Ford President Claims Union Demands Would Up Car Costs Over $300

No Company Could Grant Request and Hope to Stay in Business, He Says

Detroit — Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor company, said today the current demands of the United Auto Workers union on the auto industry would raise new car costs more than $300.

Ford, in a letter to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), said the union demands on the auto industry "amount to more than 70 cents an hour, exclusive to profit sharing. The 70 cents an hour demand alone, if granted by us and our suppliers generally, would raise the cost of an automobile more than $300. No automobile company could grant such a demand and expect to stay in business."

Price Increases

"As a matter of fact, any increases above present labor costs—even of a few cents per hour—would have to be reflected in immediate price increases on cars and trucks, if the present losses of some automotive companies are to be curtailed and the declining profit margins of others corrected."

Kefauver wrote Ford for his opinion on a proposed cut in the present 10 per cent federal excise tax on autos in return for price reductions by the auto builders.

Kefauver and five other senators offered a bill Wednesday to cut the excise tax in half. They proposed that auto buyers be refunded this amount of the tax in a lump sum from the manufacturers. The auto builders would get refunds from the government.

Flareup of Tension

A flareup of tension in contract negotiations between General Motors and the UAW was eased today by agreement to discuss a union charge that the company is threatening to scrap the jobs of 500 skilled workers.

The UAW claimed at the bargaining table yesterday that General Motors is shutting

Couple Starts Wedded Life on 50-50 Basis

Los Angeles — Actress Kate Mann and Leslie Stevens each own 50 per cent of a marriage license today.

Stevens, 34, tendered a $2 check for the license yesterday, but a clerk explained that cash is required. So he dug into his pocket—and came up with only $1.

Kate, 26, a striking blonde, opened her purse and pulled out the other $1.

They plan to be married Sunday.

Retired Policeman Faces Murder Trial in Shooting

Chattanooga, Tenn. — A former city policeman faces murder charges in the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy.

W. H. Taylor, 67, was arrested last night and released under $5,000 bond.

Taylor, who is white, said he fired at John Bolden in self defense during a disorder call in a Negro residential area Saturday night.

The policeman retired Tuesday. His request for full pension of $150 monthly was approved by the pension board.

The National association for the Advancement of Colored People termed the incident "unnecessary, wanton and unjustified."

Attorney for Gunaca Asks Conference Delay

Sheboygan — D. Charles Marston, the attorney for a Detroit union man wanted on assault charges, Thursday asked for a postponement until May 23 of a conference among himself, Sheboygan County Dist. Atty. David Weber and Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting.

The conference was originally scheduled for today to discuss a change of venue for John Gunaca, wanted for beating two non-striking Kohler company workers in 1954.

Weber and Judge Schlichting agreed to the postponement.

Appleton Firms Submit Low Bids For School Job

New London Plans Remodeling of Lincoln Structure

New London—Appleton firms submitted low bids for the renovation project at Lincoln school. The board of education tabulated bids Thursday night and will seek council approval next week.

P. G. Miron Construction company submitted the low general contracting bid of $170,629. Towne, Inc. had the low heating bid of $20,970 and R. Wenzel company had the low plumbing bid of $22,069.

Uptown Electric company, Waupaca, submitted the low electrical work bid of $25,972. Low bids totaled $239,660.

It is proposed to renovate the school by removing the third floor, remodeling the rest of the building completely and constructing two fire towers. Raymond LeVeé Appleton, is the board's consulting architect.

Centennial Leaders Ready to Dissolve City Corporation

Preliminary steps for dissolution will be discussed by the board of directors of Appleton Centennial Inc., at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at city hall.

D. R. Morrissey, corporation president, said Otto A. Hansen, treasurer, also is scheduled to present a final report on how much the centennial celebration cost.

Preliminary treasurer's reports have indicated a loss of more than $30,000.

In the midst of the fun when presentations were made to Tom Verkuilen, who represented the athletes, and G. A. Ediger, who represented the senior sponsors.

"Graduation Day" was the key to the finale and was sung by Jean Ferron, a soprano soloist. The cast of 100 students girls and boys added variety to the musical numbers. They farewelled to the school. The final song "You Are My Love" and ale had assembled whistling to the more modern number the catchy strains of the marching song from "Bridge on the River Kwai."

Chamber to Name Depot Study Unit

A chamber of commerce committee will be named to study the railroad depot problem, the chamber's board of directors decided Thursday.

The committee which will be organized later, will work with city councilmen to find some better solution than Appleton Junction, it was said.

The Chicago and North Western Railway company transferred its passenger operators to the Junction from its downtown station earlier this month. The move reportedly has met with public disfavor.

Specifically, the chamber committee will study the reasonableness of moving the depot back where it was or combining it in a new air-rail center.

Names Pask

Chamber President Walter L. Rugland notified the board he is organizing a committee to study national legislation. Leonard Pask he said, will serve as chairman. Other members will be selected after he confers with Pask.

The committee would take stands on proposed legislation and pass along its views to the state's two senators and Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes. The directors also approved the $47,910 budget for the 1958-59 year, as proposed by the special budget committee.

Curtains Stolen

William Stang, Wauwatosa, told police Thursday that thieves stole the side curtains worth $30 from his foreign sports car while it was parked near the Conway hotel.

Talent, Pantomime, Sheer Fun Make AHS Senior Show Successful

BY LAYERNE KNEIBUSCH

A combination of real talent, clever pantomime and sheer fun made up the senior class show "The Best of '58." It was presented by more than 100 students of the graduating class of Appleton High school Thursday afternoon for a student assembly.

The entire show was based on winning awards after the fashion of the Oscar and Emmy awards. In the AHS show, however, "Herbie's" were to be given for the best acts. The panel of judges was made up of distinguished citizens impersonated by students. The judges were Ronald Kuhr in the role of Mayor Mitchell, Fred Jungers as Superintendent of Schools John P. Mann, John Cotton as W. A. Witte, assistant principal, John Reeve as Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmoege, Anne Campbell as Miss Annabelle Wolf, dean of girls, and Dwayne Norris as Charles Cook, dean of boys.

Kenneth Holehouse was emcee. Climax was the decision of the judges given by "Mayor Mitchell" who decided no one act could stand alone and merit the "Herbie."

Therefore the judges decided the class of '58 should present to the remaining students "Our Heroine," the grand award for education and all it comprised. H. H. Helble principal was then presented to the audience and received an overwhelming ovation.

Unusual in a senior show were the take-offs on various events during high school days made a hit with the audience. "Buddies" was a soft shoe dance and song number by DeDe Rudolph and Lolly Morrissey who had devised some interesting business to make the act different.

Mixed Quartet Two songs by a quartet of 100 students girls and boys added variety to the musical numbers. They farewelled to the school. The final song "You Are My Love" and ale had assembled whistling to the more modern number the catchy strains of the marching song from "Bridge on the River Kwai."

Two clever pantomimes showed the dramatic talents of several of the seniors. Judy Goenier and Karen Ogaard dressed as a yellow canary bird and a black pussycat gave a clever dramatization called "Sweet, Sweet, Twenty." Jim Zerg and Nick Hovey had an excellent routine and musical, turning in their pantomime of "Coe."

One of the "so different" numbers of the show was the song and tap dance feature by Christy Goss. "Backstage Chaos" was a clever bit of nonsense in which the backstage crew's showed the audience the hectic work involved in getting scenes ready.

"Slaughter on 10th Avenue" was a take-off on the senior class show "The Red House Mystery." In this stunt the action showed most of the past murdered in some mysterious way ghosts running around the house a romantic couple completely unaware of what was happening and the only two sane people being two who had escaped from an asylum.

Musical numbers made up the other acts. "Tennessee Wigwag" was a smooth song and dance number. "Sweet Georgia Brown" was a Negro act. Chuck Riley combined his trumpet number with the boys orders last night to round up communists responsible for the demonstrations. Informed sources said the nationalistic Aprista party—Peru's largest—expelled a student member for joining the mob.

Nixon said he viewed the Peruvians. When he left his hotel events at San Marcos, the old ward a friendly visitor the ordinary measures of courtesy and hemispheric, as a long-range hospitality.

Lima police reportedly got defeat for the communists "because a violent and vocal on's wife) and warm regard to yourself.

"As ever,"

Eisenhower signed the note with his initials—D.E.

Earlier, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) called the Lima incident essentially an attack on the people of the United States more than on Nixon as an individual.

Yet it may have a net result of strengthening ties of friendship between the United States and Peru and between this country and Latin America as a whole, Mansfield predicted. He said:

"The demonstration was uncalled for and is a blot on the good name of Peru, one of our oldest and best friends in all Latin America.

"I am saddened that the dignity and honor of the people and the government of Peru was besmirched by this outrageous incident. Mr. Nixon is to be commended for the courage and dignity he has displayed in meeting this and other unpleasant incidents which have occurred during this tour.

"These incidents seem to indicate a well-developed and well-thought-out pattern. Out of these shameful episodes may come a better understanding and I know that the good sense and innate decency of the Peruvian people will prevail. The net result may well be a firm tie of friendship between our two countries and between this country and Latin America as a whole."

Eisenhower, in a message addressed to "Dear Dick," said Nixon's handling of the episode has brought him "new respect and admiration in our country."

The text of Eisenhower's message:

"Your courage, patience and calmness in the demonstration directed against you by radical agitators have brought you new respect and admiration in our country.

"I am certain the vast majority of citizens both in Peru and in the United States deplore the incident caused by a few.

"I note with satisfaction that the Peruvian government has already expressed to you its regret.

"Indeed, I feel that every participant in the mob will find cause to feel a sense of guilt and embarrassment because of his failure to show toward a friendly visitor the ordinary measures of courtesy and hemispheric, as a long-range hospitality.

"Give my love to Pat (Nixon's wife) and warm regard to yourself."

Railroad Wins Suit in Nation's Worst Track Crash

Phoenix, Ariz. — A Maricopa county superior court jury decided in favor of the Southern Pacific Railroad company last night in a $520,000 damage suit stemming from the nation's worst car-train collision.

The suit was filed by Cecilia B. Alire, administratrix of the estates of nine of the 12 persons killed when a car collided with the Southern Pacific's Golden State Limited Dec. 16, 1956, at a southwest Phoenix crossing.

All 12 killed were car occupants. The only survivor in the jam-packed 1937-model car was Crucita Alire, 3. Cecilia's niece. Nine members of the Alire family were killed in the crash.

The verdict was 9-3 for the railroad, all that is needed in a civil case.

After the verdict was announced, Elias Romley, chief counsel for the plaintiff, asked the judge to set aside the decision, claiming pressure was exerted against one of the jurors, Judge R. C. Stanford denied the motion.

State Income Tax Shares Up Over Last Year

Individuals and corporations paying taxes on calendar year 1957 generally are responsible for the increases.

Out-of- prospective fluctuations are accounted for some times by changing of fiscal years by large employers or a sudden trend to payment of taxes on the installment plan. Such is the case this year with Kaukauna, where a large mill changed bookkeeping procedures last year.

Outagamie county will receive $188,059, compared to $152,154 a year ago. Total payments to county governments will amount to $1,041,223.

Joseph E. Davies Dies at Capital

also held a number of special assignments under Roosevelt and later President Truman.

Born at Watertown

Davies, a native of Watertown, Wis., first entered government under President Wilson, whom he served as campaign manager in Wilson's first try for the White House in 1912.

Last December, Davies asked the federal district court to name a Washington bank as conservator of his property.

In a petition filed with the court, Davies said he was unable to care for his property himself because of his physical incapacity and age.

Although an avowed capitalist, Davies got along well with the late Soviet Dictator Josef Stalin during his service as ambassador and was the first foreign envoy to have a personal interview with the Russian leader.

That came in 1938 as Davies was leaving Moscow to take over the post of U. S. ambassador to Belgium and Luxembourg.

Worked For Wilson

Davies first became active in national politics as a western campaign manager for Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 election. He served under Wilson as U. S. commissioner of corporations and was the first chairman of the federal trade commission, serving from 1913 to 1918.

He left that post to run as a Democrat for senator in Wisconsin, but was defeated. In Marjorie Merriweather Post, 1919, Davies was an economic heir to a breakfast cereal adviser to Wilson at the Versailles conference.

Between public assignments, Davies practiced law in the Washington firm of Davies, Richberg, Tydings and Landa, and was identified with the firm until his death. He specialized in international and corporation law.

President Roosevelt named Davies ambassador to Russia and later to Belgium.

As a special envoy of Roosevelt, he made preliminary arrangements for the 1943 Teheran conference which brought Stalin, Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill together in Iran.

During the wartime period Davies also served as a special assistant to Secretary of State Hull.

After Roosevelt's death, Davies was sent by President Truman to confer with Churchill about plans for the Potsdam conference in Germany and he served as a member of the U. S. delegation to that meeting.

He also was a member of the commission on universal military training which Truman named after World War II.

In 1946 Davies was awarded the order of merit, the highest civilian award bestowed by this government.

Born Nov. 29, 1876, in Watertown, Wis., Davies received an A.B. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1898 and an LL.B. degree three years later. The university awarded him an honorary LL.D. degree in 1941—one of many he received from universities both here and abroad.

He was first married in 1902 to Miss Emlen Knight of Madison, Wis., but the marriage ended in a divorce.

Later he was married to Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, 1919. Davies was an economic heir to a breakfast cereal fortune. She divorced him in 1955, after 20 years of marriage, charging mental cruelty. She lives in Washington.

Davies is survived also by three daughters, Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, wife of the former Maryland senator; Mrs. E. Fontaine Brown, wife of a Washington attorney; and Mrs. Robert L. Grosjean, now with her husband in Hamburg, Germany.

Mrs. Tydings and Mrs. Brown were with Davies when he died.

Peace at Any Price?

A fairly strong group of respected intellectuals in the United States and England have been backing a campaign against the nuclear tests scheduled for Eniwetok this summer. Writers Norman Cousins, Lewis Mumford and David Riesman, Churchmen Harry Emerson Fosdick, Paul Tillich and Martin King, Oscar Hammerstein II, James Patton, head of the Farmers' Union, Chemist Dr. Linus Pauling and Elmo Roper are signature members of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Who Should Go to College?

In the abundance of discussion about the problem of higher education opportunity that has flavored public debate in America lately, there has been little recognition of the fact that some of the proposals have been unrealistic to the point of absurdity.

Typically, there is the assumption that every high school graduate, willy-nilly, ought to go to college. Some people have assumed collaterally that the American taxpayer owes every high school graduate a college ticket gratis.

Our Madison correspondent recently paid his respects to the brilliant address at a recent educational conference at Madison of Miss Catherine Cleary, a Milwaukee business woman who formerly served as a regent of the state college system and is now a trustee of Lawrence college. There is one theme of her address that is worthy of repetition, and reflection by all those citizens who have thought about the implications of the ever-increasing enrollments at tax-supported colleges and universities and the policy-making decisions involved.

Inevitably, declared Miss Cleary, the vastly increasing populations of our college and university campuses will require a more selective policy on admissions. Private institutions have long recognized this. Their resources are not sufficient, in these times, to accommodate all who knock on their doors. They pick the best of the matriculation aspirants. It is not sufficiently realized that higher education costs are such that our public institutions are going to be forced to be more selective too, in original admissions, and in performance tests en route to the degree. But, and contrary to some of our fuzzy thinkers, this is not undemocratic. While we should bend every effort to assure opportunity for higher education to the worthy applicant, we can do no real benefit to the individual or to the community by keeping unqualified young people in college. Miss Cleary put it as effectively as it probably can be put when she said: Parents particularly must take a realistic view of their children's abilities. If a child has great intellectual promise, his parents should encourage him to attend college even though they cannot help him financially and no one in the family has ever gone to college before. If a child does not have the mental capacity for college, his parents should encourage him to undertake another type of educational program which suits his interests and his abilities, even though all his ancestors have been doctors, judges, ministers and college presidents. This is only fair to the child. It is also important from the standpoint of economical use of our educational resources.

The Wrong Way to Attack Urban Problems

We suppose it was inevitable that at a meeting on urban problems sponsored by the platform committee of the Wisconsin Democratic party the principal emphasis would be placed on the need for more federal and state handouts to our cities. Nevertheless we find it disappointing that this tired old melody should be played at a meeting ostensibly devoted to a serious discussion of this important subject.

The obvious purpose of the Fond du Lac meeting was to impress Wisconsin's urban people with the minority party's concern about their welfare; but there is nothing wrong with that. The failure of the Republican-dominated Wisconsin legislature to attack the state's urban problems forthrightly and courageously has, in fact, offered the Democrats an opening for some years, although the party's leadership has seemed little aware of that fact until recently. Since the Democrats traditionally must look to the larger cities for the bulk of their votes, any serious candidate on the Democratic ticket should be expected to list concern for urban problems as one of his major appeals to the electorate.

But if Wisconsin's Democrats can offer only the old cry of "more federal aid" they will contribute practically nothing to any real solution of the problems facing the state's urban people. Federal aid is exactly what our cities do not need—our municipalities are having a hard enough time raising money for needed projects without sending an ever increasing share of their tax dollars to Washington and having it come back again in a shrunken condition. Because of the manner in which Wisconsin has permitted a crazyquilt pattern of municipalities to develop there may be some sound reasons why the state government should attempt to equalize tax burdens among municipalities through state subsidies. But federal aid is a snare and a delusion, and it is disheartening to see such men as Milwaukee's Mayor Zeidler and Madison's Mayor Nestigen—to whom the state's urban areas naturally look for leadership—unable to talk about urban problems without demanding more manna from Washington.

We are beginning to suspect that no two Democrats can discuss any problem, big or small, facing the human race without concluding that a program of federal aid is the only possible answer. As long as Wisconsin's Democrats continue to be mesmerized by this myth, we cannot see how the people of this state can look to them for serious and constructive leadership in attacking the very real problems that face us.

Irked by 'Moronic' Weather Headlines

Editor, Post-Crescent: These moronic (weather headlines) are getting to be the height of idiocy. Inasmuch as this daily item is a factual report of the weather, would there be anything wrong with using the word "weather" to read the article? I think the majority of readers can form their own interpretation of a weather report without this type of assistance. You have another item captioned, "Temperatures Around Nation" which seems to be very adequate, is easy to locate, and evidently does not need additional interpretation for the I.Q. of your readers. I would like to suggest that you dispense with these educational efforts of "Rodin's Thinker" and please use the word "weather." Herbert G. Wettengel 264 N. Bennett St., Appleton

What Others are Saying
Colossal Blunder

From the Manchester (N.H.) Union-Leader: An editorial in the November issue of Missiles and Rockets, a vehicle of American Aviation Publications, has issued a challenge to the next session of congress that we would like to wholeheartedly endorse. The magazine asks congress to make public the names of the members of the 9-man committee that turned down offers to use military rockets to launch the first American satellite—a colossal blunder to end all blunders. The American people have a right to know who these men are so they can help sort out the incompetent from the capable.

These Days
Bertrand Russell's Reasoning on Communism or Death Irks Sokolsky

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY (Copyright, 1958) Bertrand Russell, the British philosopher, who has earned an enormous world reputation as a mathematician, politician, lover, and geriatricist, wrote to Alfred Kohberg, who has denominated himself as the "China lobby," as follows: "As for your accusation that the policy I have advocated has changed from time to time: it has changed as circumstances have changed. To achieve a single purpose, sane men adapt their policies to the circumstances. Those who do not are insane."

This is the last paragraph of a letter in which Russell advocated "unilateral nuclear disarmament" for Great Britain if negotiations for universal nuclear disarmament should fail. This idea may be all right for the British, but it is meaningless in the situation in which the United States finds itself. Russell, who does not believe in absolutes, comes up with this one: Lesser of Two Evils "I favour negotiations between them for abolition of nuclear weapons by both sides. I so hold, however, that, if all negotiations prove futile and no alternatives remain except communist domination or extinction of the human race, the former alternative is the lesser of two evils."

In a word, the ancient philosopher prefers slavery to death, which is, of course, his option. Patrick Henry preferred to risk death to win liberty which was the old-fashioned American idea. Perhaps the difference lies in age. Lord Russell is 86 years old. However, Herbert

Hoover, who is nearly 84, would turn such cowardice down. Many young Americans are influenced by the views of Lord Russell who for many years earned a part of much of his living travelling about the United States, lecturing and amusing American audiences by a general condemnation of American folkways which apparently appeared to be somewhat primitive to his exalted mind. As to sane men adapting their policies to circumstances, this is a subject that requires considerable thought. Certainly the mobsters who attended the Appalachian conference were adapting themselves to circumstances. It has become necessary to replace the older statesmanship of Frank Costello by a more dynamic leadership in the world of private enterprise, namely, the operation of certain competitive, marginal industries which legislation has made illegal. So these very practical men selected a secluded and unusual place where about 60 of them met in a most sane manner to adjust themselves to circumstances. Their predecessor, Al Capone, must surely have been sane, for he adjusted brilliantly to the circumstances of prohibition and established a state within a state, over which he ruled with saved-off shotgun. Those who did not adapt their policies to the circumstance of prohibition, drank home-made bathtub gin and were blinded or they did not drink at all and thirsted because of their absolute principle that the law is the law no matter what one thinks of it. As Many Sinners The world without absolutes in which Bertrand Russell lives is no very great improvement upon the world of Queen Victoria when absolutes reigned even to the point of making it less ill-mannered to have a mistress secretly than to throw the mother of one's children into the gutter to satisfy a fancy. There probably were as many sinners then as now, but we knew less about them

Looking Backward
No Cows at Large in Seymour

79 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of May 10, 1879. The City Council of Seymour has passed an ordinance prohibiting the running at large of cows. This young city leads that of our own in this respect. Thousands of dollars of damage is done annually to sidewalks and gardens by unruly cows and yet it is difficult to create a public sentiment in favor of shutting them up. 25 YEARS AGO Friday, May 3, 1933 Oscar J. Schmiede, former assistant district attorney, announced organization of the Mortgage Advisory service with offices in the Zuelke building. The new firm was to specialize in mortgage reorganizations. Philip Johnson was elected president of Baptist Young People's Union of First Baptist church. Everett Fliegel was chosen vice president. Miss Lucretia Zimmerman secretary, and Shelton Noyes treasurer. A travelogue on Bagdad was presented in the form of a dramatization at the meeting of the Missionary society of First Reformed church at the home of Miss Louise Kuppenhan. Appleton. Those who took part were Miss Tillie Jahn, Mrs. Royal Thomack, Miss Evelyn Brandt and Mrs. E. F. Franz.

Once a fire fighter, always a fire fighter. Thomas Spaulding, new vice president of the First National bank of Menasha, was formerly the fire chief as well as a bank officer in Marshfield. When fire broke out in the Menasha Mill Supply building he went to work. Bare headed, but equipped with a fireman's rain coat, Spaulding took an active part in helping battle the flames.

10 YEARS AGO Friday, May 7, 1948 Earl W. Bowers, Appleton, was promoted to sergeant in the air force at Washington, D. C. Kenneth Du Vall, president of the First National bank, was to speak on "Bank Credit Becomes a Political Issue" at the state convention of the Indiana Bankers' association. Under the Capitol Dome
Democrats Say Steinle Acts Like Joe McCarthy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD Madison—One of the habits, natural or contrived, of the Democratic party leadership that must be infuriating to the serious Republican partisan is the air of solicitude about the best interests of the Republicans in their ticket-building this year.

Several times lately, with a solemnity that must excite only incredulity among the sophisticated, the acknowledged captains of the Democrats have offered their views on who would be the best candidate for the Republicans to put up for United States senator. Sen. William Proxmire, always willing to express himself on any conceivable topic, has allowed that the Republicans should put up former Rep. Glenn R. Davis. Mr. Davis, whose contempt for Mr. Proxmire is well known, is not on the record with respect to his opponent's suggestion. But most other Republicans are probably wondering why Mr. Proxmire should be concerned over their interests as to try to help them in making a decision in picking a candidate. There is something unnatural about the business. AND AGAIN Sen. Proxmire's good friend Pat Lucey, the Democratic chairman who was installed last fall as a proof of the senator's power in the organization, has lately chimed in with a similar posture of being helpful to the enemy. Mr. Roland Steinle, he says, is too much like the late Sen. McCarthy. Not only is he saying the wrong things—that is, the things that McCarthy might have said—but he even looks like McCarthy and acts like McCarthy. These are the men who complained so bitterly about guilt by association and other things during McCarthy's heyday. Today, evidently, there is to be guilt by resemblance, but without any pious protests about it. Obviously, Mr. Lucey's distaste for the Steinle style of oratory and issue-selection seemed to suggest that the party chairman of the Democrats also would like the Republicans to choose another opponent for Mr. Proxmire.

What do these strange goings-on mean? Mr. Steinle is jubilant by the attention he already has won. If the Democratic brass is so worried about him, he reasons, he is probably having some effect. Whatever the justice of that assumption—and candidates are pretty eager beavers about such things—no realist about affairs politically would really believe that the Democrats intend to be helpful toward their opponents by encouraging them to choose their strongest slate. The hunch must be that the Democrats really believe Davis would be the easier foe for Proxmire to square off with after the primary in September.

ANOTHER There is another possible interpretation, albeit a somewhat jocular one. It may be that the Democrats have become so used to taking part in the business of nominating Republican candidates for high office that they have become somewhat possessive about the Republican primary and find it hard to break the habit. There isn't the slightest doubt that Democrats have invaded Republican primaries in droves over the years when the GOP had competition for nominations and the Democrats didn't—and even when the Democrats did. The 1957 and 1956 nominations for senator offer classical examples to the serious students of Wisconsin electoral trends.

This year chances are the convention-endorsed Republican candidate will have no significant opposition for the nomination in September. Some Democrats may feel lonely and imposed upon in the prospect they will be denied a sport they have enjoyed no long.

Potomac Fever— by Fletcher Knebel

Ike cancels his regular press conference. He wants to give reporters a little more time—in hopes some will bring shades with their next lectures. Arthur Flemming may succeed Marion Folsom as secretary of health, education and welfare. Surprise. Nobody there was another Republican who favored all three. Democratic Chairman Butler predicts Ike will resign in favor of Nixon. He got this from the same vision in which Adlai Stevenson came out for Harry Truman for president. Gen. Doolittle urges America to get going into outer space. This may become the first recession we got out of—and couldn't get back to. Republican Sen. Bush wants a federal program to stop starfish from eating oysters. Republican war cry: "Under Eisenhower, the oyster is our world!" First Democrat: "How's your campaign going?" Second Democrat: "Wonderful! I'm running against war, famine, juvenile crime, recession, sputniks—and this awful defeatist psychology." The Russian-U. S. race to reach the summit reminds you of the tortoise and the hare. It's only a legend that one of them actually got there—and besides the other was nowhere to be seen.

Reds Increase Infiltration of Free Countries

Hope to Dominate, Conquer Democracies Without Firing Shot

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The communists are stepping up their infiltration in all the countries of the free world. They feel cocky about their successes inside France, Italy and Great Britain. They are still hopeful that they can force a change in American policy, drive out their archfoe, Secretary Dulles, and give themselves also a mastery of the whole military situation by stopping our nuclear tests.

To conquer or dominate the world without firing a shot—this is the objective which the communists are confident they can attain because of various weaknesses in the free world countries.

Many Americans are still unconvinced that there is any communist menace, and they are prone to believe that to stop nuclear testing, for instance, is merely a logical way to avoid a nuclear war. But the amount of organized propaganda behind this and other communist drives indicates clearly that the agents and auxiliaries of the Moscow government are provocatively busy everywhere improving their own military position.

Win by Default
The demonstrations by communist sympathizers against Vice President Nixon in the various Latin-American countries he has been visiting are dramatic examples of how the Soviets operate in the "cold war." To them the fight is on in earnest, and lately it has been going the communists' way almost by default. This is largely because there is a tendency, principally in the United States, to pooh-pooh the communist conspiracy.

Meanwhile, internal subversion in America is progressing rapidly, and any efforts by congressional committees to expose what's happening are reported to have been effectively squelched by the Democratic leadership, which evidently must be theorizing that the public will not mind if the Democratic party is again accused of becoming "soft on communism." For it is apparently assumed by the Democratic leaders that there is no need for incisive investigations of the ways by which the communist apparatus is today making headway in the United States, particularly in the field of science. Yet, while the background of some of the men who are in the forefront of the movement to disarm America and weaken her position on nuclear weapons cries out for exposure, the congressional committees have been told to keep their hands off. For they have done nothing about exposing the phony petitions and the devious methods by which organized propaganda against nuclear testing has been thriving lately, not only in this country but among our allies.

The communist success in paralyzing the government of France and an almost parallel achievement in breaking up the political parties in Italy is cause for genuine concern. The inroads made by the communist viewpoint in British socialist circles is the gravest threat to allied solidarity yet to appear. What would happen to world policies in the North Atlantic Treaty organization if the conservative government in Britain is ousted is a matter of grave worry everywhere.

No Awareness
Inside the United States, there isn't as yet a general awareness of what hurts this country abroad. Thus the other day Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, Democrat, in a spur-of-the-moment comment on a television broadcast—which he probably regretted the moment he made it—said that the United States military men want "dirty" bombs and are making "dirtier" H-bombs. The Atomic Energy commission denied this categorically, but for the last few days the Soviet radio has been exultantly repeating in many languages throughout the world the comment by the chairman of the joint committee on atomic energy of both houses of congress.

Then there is the situation about "surprise attack," which the Russians have been publicizing lately because of American maneuvers in the Arctic. A new drive is on to compel our strategic air command to stop training for interception of a surprise attack. This, plus a ban on further testing of nuclear weapons, would give a military advantage of tremendous value to the Soviets. Small wonder the communists think they can conquer or dominate the world without firing a shot—they still think Americans are gullible and naive. And, judging by the current attitude here toward Soviet infiltration in the United States, the communist planners may feel they have some basis for their theories, though it would prove to be a tragic miscalculation if they ever forced the issue to a climax. 'Green Bay Packer Night' Planned for Kaukauna Fans

Kaukauna — Arrangements for a "Green Bay Packer Night" program in Kaukauna should be completed within the next week, according to Art Mongin, local member of the Green Bay Packer directors.

Tentative plans call for the appearance of Packer players, coaches and executives at a special program, the first of its kind in this area, to be held May 20 at the Fox Valley Golf club.

In addition to the appearance of Packer personnel, the film, "Packer Highlights of 1957," will be shown. The meeting is open to the public and no connection with any club or organization is necessary, emphasized Mongin. Plans call for the program to get underway about 8:15 in the evening and will be open to anyone interested in meeting Packer personnel, listening to the inside story of the Packers from the player, coaches and executive standpoint and viewing the highlights of the 1957 season, according to Mongin.

Home-School Unit Told Of Summer Activities

Four Speakers Tell Parents of Aiding Children's Future

Kaukauna — "How Your Children Can Have a Good Summer" was the theme of the final program of the year for the Holy Cross Home-School association with guest speakers covering various phases of summer activity.

Sister Emeline, school principal, opened the discussion by advising parents summer was the beginning of learning, not the end. She told of hobbies to gain interest and keep minds and hands busy, advised parents to help children regularly with work on subjects on which the child might be weak in school, and to see the youngsters do not take a vacation from mass and the sacraments.

Harold V. Engerson, chief of police, explained summer hazards to children and the importance of stressing safety. He said drowning was the most hazardous of summer problems and urged parents to enroll children in the recreation department sponsored learn to swim programs.

Recreation Speaker Robert Vanevenhoven, recreation director, told of the importance of the summer recreation program and how it helps a child to develop physically and mentally. Many of the programs are designed to meet the child's need of competition and to lose gracefully, said the speaker. A schedule of summer activities and registration blanks were distributed by the director.

Walter Schmidt, guidance director at Kaukauna High school, spoke on vocational preparation during the summer months, the main part of his talk being for parents of older students. He told parents children could find help in deciding on a vocation through summer jobs or work experiences, reading, visiting and observing jobs and colleges and hobbies. He urged parents to encourage thinking about vocations but not to force the child into decisions. The Rev. Andrew Quella, pastor, installed new officers and proceeded from a Home-School play were voted to be used for the purchase of a new curtain for the stage. The association also decided to purchase a public address system which will be available to all church societies. The attendance award went to Sister Frances Clare's first grade room and lunch was served by mothers of first graders. The next association meeting will be in October.

Other officers named include William Schmitz, first vice commander; Arthur Gandt, second vice commander; Dudley Dalton, adjutant; George Roth, assistant adjutant; Steve Andrejeski, finance officer; Chris Gerig, chaplain, and Ralph Juncua and Arthur Schmidt, sergeants at arms.

Named to the executive committee were Arthur Kromer, Jr., Richard Oudenhoven, Fred Mason and Stan Lizon. State convention delegates named were David Specht, Karl Freier, Dudley Dayton, Richard Oudenhoven and Arthur Kromer, Jr.

Alternate delegates will be William Schmitz, Steve Andrejeski, Al Marzahl, Arthur Gandt and Art Borchardt. The executive committee was authorized to dispose of the present clubrooms as plans are underway for the construction of a new building on the recently acquired American Legion Memorial park property. The present building is located on Oak street adjacent to Kaukauna High school and the city will have first option on buying the building with an eye toward future school expansion.

Plans for a joint officer installation ceremony with the auxiliary on June 7 were completed.

Tyrone Power, Bride Arrive In Hollywood

Hollywood — Tyrone Power is in town with his bride — a striking brunette divorcee who says she just wants to be a housewife.

"No, I have no acting ambitions, I just want to be a wife to Ty," said the former Mrs. Deborah Montgomery Minardos, 26, when she arrived with the actor by plane Thursday night.

They were married in a quiet church ceremony Wednesday in her home town, Tunica, Miss.

Your Problems

One-Time Alcoholic 'on Wagon' When Spending Money's in View

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I listened to you a year ago and now I'm sorry. My husband used to drink something terrible. He'd go on a bender and stay drunk for weeks. He had a heart of gold but never a dime in his pocket.

You advised me to take Ann Landers him to A.A. Well, I did, and now he's a changed man. I liked him better the other way.

He doesn't touch a drop of liquor, but now he's so tight he wouldn't pay a dime to see Ireland. He's a steam-fitter by trade, makes good money, and banks every cent of it. He won't even carry a lunch. He'd rather bum a sandwich off someone or eat what they leave in their sacks.

I'm a nurse by profession and my earnings keep us going. I want to quit work and stay home, but he says if I do he'll leave me. This is all your fault, Ann. At least when he was drinking he had a good disposition and was no miser. What do you have to say now?—MRS. EPHRIUM R.

The fact he's on a stingy-kick is unfortunate. A man who is so tight that he won't take a lunch from home is pretty twisted. He needs professional help.

DEAR ANN: My problem isn't earth-shaking, but it's a plenty big headache. Maybe you can help me.

I started to write to a kid in the Navy. His letters were very affectionate. When he came home on leave he never took me on a real date. Just sat around the house and ate out of the ice-box.

Last week I found out that he's going steady with a girl right in this town and has been writing to five girls in addition to me. When I mentioned this to him, he said "Yes, it's true." Then he offered a solution—his brother.

Well, his brother is a creep and I don't want to go out with him. But I'm afraid if I insult his brother I will lose out with the boy I really like. This is such a mess I don't know what to do. Please, help me.—TAF-FY.

Tell Romeo it isn't necessary to present you with a consolation prize, in the form of a brother. You needn't editorialize on what you think of him, however. Simply refuse his offer to line up with the brother, and let it go at that.

Since the young man already has a steady girlfriend and a six-pronged correspondence going full blast, I'd say there's too much action for what you have in mind. My advice is to get interested in someone who has fewer involvements.

P. S. What's this boy got, anyway? Is he giving away S & H green stamps?

DEAR ANN: Is it considered proper to correct a person's English when he mispronounces a word?—E. I. G.

P. S. I know a man who got a fat lip over this. Please settle it.

It is not good manners to correct a person's English in the presence of others. This should be done privately.

"Remember When?" is a good conversational game for a family dinner. Each person at the table has a turn to reminisce about something he's done. One event usually leads to another, and it's the kind of talk in which a very young child can take part.

The Family Council

Daughter Responsible for Broken Troth, Not Parents

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

John F.—I think I acted too hastily in throwing out Mona's fiancé.

Bertha F.—He should have been thrown out years ago.

John F.—My wife and I disagree on what to do about our 27-year-old daughter, who recently broke an engagement with a man she had known for about ten years.

For many years she said her friendship with this man was not serious. They saw one another off and on. At last Mona said she decided she was really in love with Bill and wanted to marry him.

We didn't care for Bill. He is of a different faith from ours and he has a lot of personality quirks we don't like. But we figured Mona was old enough to choose.

However, their engagement turned out very badly. They fought all the time. Finally I put my foot down and practically threw the guy out of the house. Now Mona is so broken-hearted that I'm sorry, and feel I acted too hastily.

Bertha F.—I think John acted too late, rather than too hastily. Bill has been hanging around for too many years, taking up Mona's time to no purpose at all. I would like to have thrown him out five years ago, but at that time they did seem to be very much in love and it seemed a shame to interfere.

Of course, now it's pretty tough for Mona. Most of her friends are married and she has to start finding a new social set. It's a real problem, but I think we'll be able to manage to help her.

John says it will be our fault if Mona turns out to be an old maid, but I can't believe Bill is at the Catholic club for an election of officers. Named her. I tell her to go out and make them be interested.

The council: Both these parents are taking more responsibility for the breakup of this engagement than is warranted. If Mona did not follow Bill out of the house when her father threw him out, that engagement was never meant to culminate in anything more than tears and angry words.

We suspect that, for one reason or another, Mona actually wanted her parents to do the dirty work of extricating her from this relationship.

From the account of both parents, Mona appears to be exceptionally childish for her age. She waited for her parents to get her out of a bad situation and now she seems to want them to do something about her present predicament. Mrs. F. seems ready to go into action on that score.

After a long and dependent friendship with Bill, Mona undoubtedly will have trouble finding new relationships. With Bill she felt at ease, accepted, even loved, without trying too hard. Now she must fight for small amounts of attention.

We don't think these parents should undertake to do too much for Mona. She should realize they were not responsible for the breakup of her engagement. It was what she wanted. Now she must make other plans, and accept the full responsibility for creating her future.

Stewardship To be Observed In Soil Week

Conservationists Join Clergy for County-Wide Project

"Soil Stewardship week for 1958 will be observed next week," Joseph Weyers, Kaukauna, chairman of the Outagamie County Soil Conservation district governing body announced today.

"During this period we can again focus attention on the kinship between a man's spiritual beliefs and the soil and water resources on which his life depends," he said.

The local SCD supervisors are supporting the program of Soil Stewardship week at the county level, while nation-wide it is sponsored by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts and national church organizations.

Sacred Obligation
"In many lands, man has paused on certain days or seasons of the year to remind himself of his sacred obligation to cherish and care for the Lord's earth," the chairman remarked.

"Soil Stewardship week ties in with Rogation days, which have been observed for centuries on the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before Ascension Thursday. The purpose of Rogation days is to implore the mercy of God that He may keep us from all evils of soul and body, and give to the plants of the field an increase."

"While man has sometimes been negligent in his stewardship of the land, his shortcomings have seldom been intentional," Weyers said.

"Most often they have come from lack of knowledge or understanding of the Divine law of creation, or the absence of spiritual guidance to remind him that he is but a custodian, not owner, of the Lord's land," Weyers concluded.

Supervisors of the Outagamie County Soil Conservation district in addition to the chairman are: Henry Van Straten, Appleton; Walter Laetke, Hortonville, and Harold Schmeichel, Appleton.

Theater in U. S. Compares Favorably With Europe, Drama Professor Says

F. T. Cloak Talks on Experiences During Year of Travel and Study

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

With 13,000 miles of theater-going and study in European cities and villages behind him, F. Theodore Cloak, Lawrence college drama professor, told his Fox Cities audience at Morgan school Thursday night the American theater need not take a back seat by comparison.

This does not imply his year abroad under a Ford Foundation grant was uneventful, without high points of dramatic flavor and personal discovery. He had plenty of both. And every one of the 100 or more persons Europe were built for this purpose, one in Milan, Italy, in 1933, and the Theatre en Rond in Paris, in 1934.

In discussing the need for the association in America, he said his Cloak saw a total of 146 theatrical performances, visited 10 countries and saw productions in nine of them.

But his conclusions were that while he saw quite a bit of good theater in Europe, he found comparatively little "thrilling theater of the kind that either gets you on your feet shouting or leaves you in a daze of contemplation."

He also said he was disappointed in the number of new plays available, pointing out that in the 49 productions he saw in England, Ireland and Scotland, less than 10 were new. Two by John Osborne, "Look Back in Anger," and "The Entertainer" now are playing in New York. He gave special mention to Ugo Betti's "Corruption in the Palace of Justice," and chose from the French the play with which American veteran actors Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are houses of Germany, from opening their new New York theater, "La Visite," by Friedrich Durrenmatt.

Other Top Plays

Among the other plays that impressed Cloak were Samuel Beckett's "Fin de Parti," now being the New York stage, "L'oeuf," by Felicien Marceau, and "The Good Woman of Setz," by Bertolt Brecht. He pointed out that his total list was surprisingly short, one that hardly indicates an international revival in playwrighting.

"I think we can feel reasonably happy about the condition of the American professional theater," he said, pointing out rope offer an interesting contrast such plays as O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey," Saroyan's "Cave Dwellers," Inge's

"Dark at the Top of the Stairs" and others stand up extremely well in comparison to modern European plays.

Cloak also said he believes there is more "forward looking" theater, experimental work, being done by off-Broadway producers today than in any of the European drama centers. He noted that even Appleton equals Europe in arena stage productions, the theater in round being introduced at Lawrence college productions in 1942. He said two theaters in Europe were built for this purpose, one in Milan, Italy, in 1933, and the Theatre en Rond in Paris, in 1934.

trate its drama, music, dance, and even sometimes its movies for periods ranging from three days to three weeks in a historical area. Our summer theaters, frequently located in vacation areas, play throughout the entire season.

Quality Programs

The programs held in small towns are amazing, he said. In Bellac, France, a community of about 1,500 persons, he said Moliere's "Amphitryon" played in front of a 16th century hotel and Giradoux' "Intermezzo" in the village square, both done by a famous company. The Paris Symphony orchestra gave two concerts and an exhibition was held of Persian miniatures.

It was here that traveler Cloak "got into the act." He helped the famed Jean-Louis Barrault, head of the dramatic group, spread bushes around to make a scene more realistic merely by being at hand. He also found himself by mistake attending an official plaque presentation in memory of two of the town's outstanding men of the theater. He mistook the mayor's quarters for another building and made his entrance and more hasty retreat between double rows of uniformed guards who snapped to attention as he passed, both ways.

At York, England, he witnessed two productions of the old cycle dramas and at Shrewsbury saw Shakespeare's "Henry IV" played in the courtyard of the castle. Cloak stayed

Chorus Sings at Music Festival

Two a cappella selections were presented by the Outagamie county homemakers' chorus at a state music festival in Green Lake, Wednesday.

Mrs. Eugene Books, Hortonville, directed the group.

Outagamie homemakers attending were Mrs. Ray Remmel, Mrs. Lester Wilhams and Mrs. Leon Wasserbach, all of Appleton. Mrs. Leo Waffle and Mrs. Ervin Tellock, Greenville. Mrs. Elmer Root, Mrs. Earl Brietrick and Mrs. Ed Wege, Hortonville. Mrs. Manning Nelson, Shiocton and Miss Nyla E. Bock, county home agent.

Homemakers' choruses from 15 counties were represented. Next performance of the Outagamie chorus will be at a rural-urban program in Appleton June 5.

ed two weeks at the Edinburgh festival and "still missed half of it" and saw 17 productions, ranging from "Hamlet" to "Three Men on a Horse" during his 2-week stay at the Berlin festival. He visited three ancient Roman theaters open for summer productions in France.

Son and Lumiere

Prof. Cloak also described several performances of the new art form, "son and lumiere," which translated means "sound and light." These are spectacles that usually combine historical drama with the miracle of modern science, according to Cloak. Based on illusion produced by stereophonic sound and lighting effects, episodic history of a specific area or castle is played out across the countryside. The story is narrated over loud speakers from tapes, he explained, to audiences a quarter of a mile away.

At Foix, a village high in the Pyrenees, he saw (and heard) his first performance, three episodes in the history of the chateau de Foix. The ancient 13th century castle was equipped with the switchboard and sound system that made the spectacle possible.

Maloney Sees Crowd

'Wuthering Heights' On Television Tonight

Rosemary Harris replaces Yvonne Furneaux as Cathy in "Wuthering Heights," scheduled for "Show of the Month" on CBS-TV at 8:30 tonight.

Miss Furneaux and the producers couldn't see eye to eye. Miss Harris recommended by Miss Jingo Furneaux, memorized her lines literally over night.

Charlie Maloney, Cinderella dance hall impresario, has a 500-ticket advance sale going for Guy Lombardo's appearance Monday night. This is more than somewhat good.

Next really big date, he says, is June 23 when Jan Garbar, Idol of the Airlines, will appear.

"Omibus," whether it stays on NBC-TV or moves to CBS-TV, plans to present "The Virginian," the first and still one of the best western novels, as a special program next fall.

After this season's triumphs, "The Life of Samuel Johnson," "The Lady's Not for Burning," "Moment of Truth," "La Perichole" and "Mrs. McThing," you can expect it will be gross.

forwarded him by state civil defense officials always is passed along to local directors. It is up to them to get the county plan for civil defense so we can all work together," Schultz said.

Beltrone charged that if an emergency hit the county, "we would have absolutely nothing. No one would know what to do."

Schultz commented that auxiliary police, trained by 12 men he arranged to attend a training school at Camp McCoy, knew what to do, that the county medical association has set up medical teams and has been contacted in regard to the 200-bed portable hospital store that he arrived at the meeting April 29 and Schultz arrived 30 minutes late. He added that Schultz "asked us what to do."

There was no planned program for the alert and I considered it a waste of time," Schultz retorted that he did not know what to do, that the county medical association has set up medical teams and has been contacted in regard to the 200-bed portable hospital store that he arrived at the meeting April 29 and Schultz arrived 30 minutes late. He added that Schultz "asked us what to do."

Schultz said that was partially true, adding he didn't think anyone was. He commented that he reports on aspects of county civil defense activity regularly to the state agencies concerned, but no overall reporting procedure exists to his knowledge. He reported to the state civil defense center Wednesday on the county's actions in receiving refugees and traffic direction Schultz added.

Test Alert

Beltrone called Green Bay for a report on the "bomb attack" early Tuesday morning. When he was called, he was given the time of the bomb explosion. Schultz said that he was not notified until he called Green Bay later that morning. He called because he had heard that Beltrone called, he explained.

Schultz said he did not think Beltrone told the Green Bay civil defense center that he represented Outagamie county, and added that Green Bay must have assumed it and not called Schultz.

Beltrone says he did not represent himself as anything except the Appleton director and made the call because he had no information from Schultz.

No Cooperation

Beltrone listed nine specific charges, including two—no cooperation and no coordination.

"The only place I don't get either one is in the city of Appleton and it's been that way since Beltrone was appointed," Schultz responded.

Asked if he would like Schultz' job Beltrone said, "Sure, and I think I could do a better job. If I ever was offered a chance to get into the state level of civil defense, I'd take it. I think it's important for all of us."

Menasha — Granting of gifts from funds derived from its programs was approved by the "Blue Inn" steering committee this week.

The committee also announced a review of all the favorite hit records of a year ago will be featured at the final "Blue Inn" night on May 24. Two other sessions, tomorrow night and Saturday, May 17, are planned before vacation begins.

Scholarships of $100 were offered to St. Mary and Menasha High schools for a graduating senior who will attend college next fall. The scholarships are based on need with the recipient remaining anonymous.

Agrees to $1,000 Settlement in Ambulance Case

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — A suit arising from a traffic case involving the Neenah city ambulance July 20, 1955, was settled out of court Thursday.

According to the agreement the city is to receive $1,000 and part of a fifth term; from Dean Tullidge, 24, Oshkosh and Madison, and Tullidge is to receive $600 from the city's insurance company.

The case had been heard 14 days in Judge Helmut F. Arps circuit court before the settlement was reached.

The city had sued Tullidge for $3,200 in damages, and had turned down a $300 settlement offer. Tullidge had filed a counter suit against Gerald Sturtis, Neenah fireman who was driving the ambulance at the time of the accident, for $5,000 in damages.

The accident happened at the intersection of Highways 114 and 41, shortly before 7 o'clock the morning of July 20, 1955, which includes four Oshkosh wards, and the rural part of the county outside the Twin home to Theda Clark hospital. City area; and Arnold J. Cane for the third district which is the cities of Neenah, Menasha and the towns of Donald Stulp of Neenah and Neenah and Menasha.

Other parties in the accident, Miss Annabelle Myhre, the ambulance passenger, had settled with Tullidge and the city earlier.

Luhn to Serve As St. Mark's First Pastor

Accepts Call of Lutheran Parish He Had Organized

Neenah — The Rev. Charles Luhn announced today his acceptance of the call as pastor of the newly-formed St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church in southwest Neenah.

Pastor Luhn for the last year has been under the call of the Synod of the Northwest, an affiliation with the United Lutheran Church in America, during which time he has organized St. Mark's church.

The congregation was formally organized with a charter adult membership of 166 and a total of 231 baptized members on Feb. 16.

Previous to undertaking the organizing of this mission, he served for two years as assistant pastor at Trinity Lutheran church of Appleton, which was his first charge. He is a graduate of Augsburg college and the Northwestern Lutheran Theological seminary, both in Minneapolis. He is originally from Racine.

Mrs. Luhn also graduated from Augsburg college and is a native of Carpio, N.D. They have two children, Perry, 5, and Rodney, 3.

Call Extended

The call was extended to Pastor Luhn by the congregation at a special meeting April 27 at which a budget was adopted for the remainder of this year. Application was made for salary aid from the Board of American Missions, under whose jurisdiction the congregation comes, beginning July 1.

A budget of $4,500 for current expenses was achieved largely through the successful every-member-visitation program conducted the week before under the direction of William Dresser, stewardship chairman. Fifty workers, or nearly one-third of the congregation, were recruited for the visitation.

Save Time By Freezing Sandwiches

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — For homemakers with home freezers, time can be saved for picnics or box lunches by freezing sandwiches ahead. Some fillings freeze more successfully than others.

Chicken, beef and salmon fillings keep well in the freezer for three or four weeks. Cheese and peanut butter also are good for freezing. Ham filling may taste strong after three weeks. Raw vegetable fillings don't freeze well either. They lose color and crispness when they are thawed. Egg sandwiches are not a good choice for freezing because the whites get rubbery.

Soften butter for easy spreading and be sure to completely cover the bread to prevent the fillings from soaking in. Salad dressing and mayonnaise aren't good to use for frozen sandwiches since they soak into the bread and also separate.

Sandwiches should be made from fresh materials and frozen immediately, says Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent. It is not a good idea to freeze sandwiches that have stood for several hours. Wrap them separately in moisture vapor proof paper and label carefully. They will thaw in two or three hours at room temperature.

April Neenah Building Tops Quarter Million

Lower Than Year Ago, but Higher Than Past Month

Neenah — Building projects worth an estimated $277,488 were authorized during April by Carleton F. Williams, city building inspector.

This compares with work authorized in April, 1957, totaling $382,316, and during March of this year totaling $237,823.

Permits for 13 new homes, worth $150,500, were granted during April to bring the total through May 1 to 45 homes, worth $244,620. Since May 1, the total number of home starts has climbed to 57.

The same number of homes were started in April as in March, but the total estimated cost was $24,000 lower in April. In April 1957, nine homes, worth $100,800, were authorized.

The Ninth ward continues to lead the home building parade, with six permits issued in April and 25 issued through May 1. The total cost of these is about $296,500.

The Sixth ward, with 10 new homes, three of them started in April, has estimated new home construction worth $83,000. The Second ward has nine new homes, two of them started in April, and a total cost of $70,500. Two new homes, worth $45,000, have been started in the First ward since Jan. 1; three new homes, worth $32,500, in the Seventh ward, and one new home, worth $8,500, in the Fourth ward have also been started. The Third, Fifth, Eighth and Tenth wards have no new homes started this year.

The total building authorized for April includes 13 homes $150,500; 13 garages, $12,100; 18 residential remodeling jobs, $27,900; seven non-residential remodeling jobs, $4,150; the Second ward park shelter building, $4,500, and the new fire substation, $45,470.

DuCharme Asks Control Over School Boards

Tells Legislative Group Buildings Could be Cheaper

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — School boards sometimes yield to extravagant impulses in building school buildings because they are not required to answer directly to the taxpayer for their budgets, a Wisconsin city mayor who was a professional educator complained here Wednesday.

Mayor R. G. DuCharme of Menasha, who taught in that city's schools before he launched his political career, made the comment as a member of a special legislative committee studying more efficient utilization of Wisconsin school plants. He was elected chairman of the 5-man committee.

DuCharme suggested that there ought to be stricter controls over school board activities in building, and wondered whether the state department of public instruction could be more helpful in supervision and counsel.

George Watson, state superintendent of schools who is also a member of the committee, replied that his office today does not have mandatory power over local school construction, although in practice it has a school building services division which helps with plans in many localities and handles school inspections.

Non-Educational Use

DuCharme referred to some of the recent school building projects in his own community, and said that too much of the new space was provided for non-educational uses.

He said also that private corporations, according to his studies, are providing new plants at costs proportionately far below those typically involved in new school construction.

Most school board members have no direct experience in building planning or supervision, he said. Moreover, they are not sufficiently conscious of the tax implications of their actions because they are not directly responsible for levying the taxes that make up their budgets.

(Wisconsin cities — on the whole have been hostile to repeated motions by educators in the past to grant city school boards "fiscal independence," which would give them independent taxing powers. The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which sponsored the school utilization study, has historically demanded that city councils control the ultimate purse-strings of city school boards.

Madison Edgewood's 8-0 Mark Tops Clubs Seeking Meet Berths

Menasha — With the time for selection of teams for the state Catholic High school baseball tournament just a week away and the tourney itself two weeks hence, the hopeful teams in the state are starting to improve their records in hopes of being named to the field of eight.

At the present time, Madison Edgewood has the most impressive record, 8-0, while La Crosse Aquinas is unbeaten in four starts.

Defending state champion Milwaukee Notre Dame is only tied for third in the Milwaukee Catholic conference with a 3-2 record. It was defeated by league-leading St. Bonaventure of Sturdivant 10-5 Thursday.

The Bonnies have 5-1.

Pius I, coached by Al Elger, who brought Waukesha Memorial teams to the state meet for six straight years, is second with 4-2 while Marquette also has 3-2. Don Bosco, a fourney entry last year, owns a 2-4 record.

One of the lesser known teams in the state, St. Luke of Plain, upped its status when its hurler Steve Meise pitched a no-hitter in a 3-0 win over Campion of Prairie du Chien this week.

Judge Orders Payments From Grove Estate

Oshkosh Teacher Gets $300 a Month Starting July 1

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — Payments of $300 a month to Carolyn Weismiller, an Oshkosh school teacher, from the estate of the late Alva J. Grove, Menasha clothier, were ordered Wednesday by County Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Grove had set up a trust providing for the payments to Miss Weismiller, who plans to retire next month. Since his death two years ago, when the payments were to begin, she has received nothing. Testimony on her petition for the payments was heard last week by the county judge.

In his decision the judge pointed out the estate of Grove is worth over $500,000, of which 90 per cent is in land. The estate realizes about $15,000 to $18,000 a year from land contracts.

However, the estate owes $67,000 in federal estate taxes and $25,000 in state inheritance taxes. It is impossible at this order of the court.

Renew Bid for Park Area in Edgewood Plat

City Will Rent Homes Located On State Site

Neenah — The park and recreation commission renewed its request Wednesday night for a new park in the Edgewood plat.

A letter from Henry C. Krueger, secretary of the commission, noted that land the commission had requested earlier had not been sold, although it was subdivided into lots by the owners, Edgewood Associates.

The lots are on Edgewood drive east of Campbell street, and about land already reserved for a new school.

Krueger said that the acquisition of the land was "desirable and essential" for the people in the area, and that it might be paid for with annexation fees. "This is a second chance that rarely presents itself," his letter said.

The request was turned over to the finance committee.

Rent City Homes
The aldermen voted to rent out the homes owned by the city at 116, 124 and 130 E. Columbia avenue at rates to be determined by the finance committee.

These homes were purchased or condemned by the city to make room for a new police station, but voters turned down the police station proposal in the April 1 referendum.

The homes will be rented for a minimum period of six months.

The aldermen granted to the Neenah Rod and Custom association permission to use the city garage for its Monday night meetings, provided a responsible parent or policeman is in attendance and provided parents of the boys in the club waive any liability insurance claims against the city.

The group is composed of young men interested in automobiles and the furtherance of safe driving.

A claim from Mrs. Frances Christopher, 212 Marten street, for $5,000 for injuries suffered in a fall on Church street last Sept. 18 was referred to the finance committee.

Annexation Petition
A petition for annexation from Leonard Larsen, 945 E. Cecil street, and Robert C. Pagel, 843 E. Cecil street, was sent to the plans commission. This annexation was denied by the previous city council.

A petition for a new street light on W. Cecil street between Henry street and S. Commercial street was sent to the public protection committee.

A waiver of special assessment notice for street improvements on Baldwin street from Emil Hagman was referred to the public works committee.

The city voted to advertise for bids for about $5,100 worth of sewer installations in the Glenayre Park plat.

The aldermen agreed to pay McMahon Engineering company, Neenah, $372 on a bill of $1,116 the other two-thirds to be paid by McMahon and Carl Baldwin. The bill was for sewer and water plans in the Baldwin plat which the city used but had not ordered.

Aldermen voted to ban parking on the north side of Hewitt street between First and Second street, and limit parking on the south side to two hours.

Estimate Cost At $54,200 for Local Dwellings
Neenah — Permits for five new homes, with a total estimated construction cost of $54,200, were issued this week by Carlton F. Williams, city building inspector.

Six remodeling and addition jobs, two new garages and a new tavern, also authorized this week, bring the total building cost for the week to $71,065.

The largest of the new homes authorized is a $15,200 frame structure to be built at 974 Baldwin street by the Baldwin Construction company. The single story home will measure 29 by 49 feet and will include an additional 20 by 24 foot garage and a 10 by 8 foot porch.

George Sturm will build two identical single story homes on Andrew avenue. Both will measure 25 by 42 feet and will cost $10,000. They will be of frame construction.

A $10,000 home is also planned by Merlin Fries on Wilson street. This frame dwelling will measure 28 by 38 feet.

The Still Construction company will erect a $9,000 home, measuring 24 by 40 feet, on E. Peckham street.

The building permit for the new tavern was issued to Alvin Doering, S. Commercial street. His new building will be of masonry construction, ford Trepanier, route 2, Menasha, which is located on County Trunk P in the town of Menasha. The house was ransacked earlier this week and reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that his square garage, and Donald wife's engagement ring was Biehl, 132 Andrew avenue, for the only thing found to be missing, a 22 by 24 foot garage.

Burgess' Pinch
Homer Highlights
8-Run Ninth Frame

(From AP Dispatches)

The Chicago Cubs fell into second place Thursday when their relief pitching collapsed and Cincinnati scored eight runs in the ninth inning for a 10-8 victory at Chicago. The idle Braves took over first.

Keying the uprising was a pinch-hit, 3-run homer by "Smoky" Burgess.

Joe Nuxhall, fourth of five Redleg pitchers was the winner. He worked the seventh and eighth and paired with Hal Jeffcoat for three innings of perfect relief.

On 1st Pitch

Burgess' homer, his first of the year, came on the first pitch by reliever Fernando Rodriguez.

The Cubs had fashioned a 5-run fifth and led, 8-2, entering the final inning. In all they used six pitchers with Dolan Nichols, the fourth hurler, getting the loss. Walt Moryn and Dale Long each had solo homers in the Cubs' 13-hit onslaught.

Cub starter Dick Drott was forced out in the third inning with injury. He was hospitalized for treatment of a ruptured blood vessel on the inner side of his right thigh. He may be sidelined four or five days, or longer.

The Cubs move to St. Louis to face the last place Cardinals tonight in the opener of a 4-game series. Moe Drabowsky (1-1) will meet Sam Jones (0-3).

Braves Capitalize on Cub Loss
To Regain NL's Top Rung

Milwaukee —P— Thursday was just about perfect for the Milwaukee Braves. They were idle because of an open date and the weather was ideal for a batting drill, but most important, they climbed back into first place.

The Braves are in the lead for the third time this season, and their immediate goal is to stay there. They will seek satisfaction of their ambitions tonight in the opening encounter of a 3-game series with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Seek Fifth Straight
The Braves and lefty Warren Spahn will be seeking their fifth straight victories. Facing the undefeated Spahn will be Bob Purkey, 3-0, the only pitcher to shut out the Braves this season.

The Braves are in first place again, thanks to the Redlegs who turned the tables in Chicago Thursday by coming up with eight runs in the ninth inning to knock off the frisky Cubs, 10-8. The loss dropped the Windy city nine to second place, 13 percentage points behind Milwaukee.

The Braves are fresh from their three straight victories at St. Louis where most of the players regained their batting eyes while chasing the last place Cardinals all over the lot.

In taking the series, Milwaukee scored 28 runs on 42 hits. Among those adding to the totals was "Red" Schoendienst who has hit safely in 16 straight games. His string is only one

Indefinitely

Charged With Physical Attack
On Umpire Pappas

Green Bay —P— Manager Pete Reiser of the Green Bay Bluejays Thursday night was suspended indefinitely by Three-I League President Hal Totten for a "physical attack upon an umpire" in Wednesday night's game with Cedar Rapids.

Reiser was notified by telegram that "because of your physical attack upon Umpire Matt Pappas, you are hereby under indefinite suspension by the league."

The Green Bay manager denied any physical contact with the umpire but admitted he did call him "a meat head." The exchange came after Pappas called a balk on Bluejay pitcher Harvey Mills.

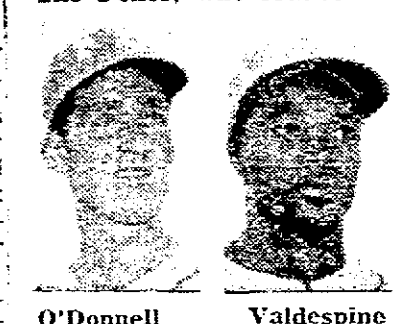

Reiser claimed his verbal barrage was much less severe than one by Cedar Rapids Manager Al Monchak earlier in the game after a home run ruling. Reiser said Monchak was only thumbed out of the game.

While Reiser is sitting it out the Bluejays will be handled by Coach Emmy Unzieger.

Conclude First Home Stand With
4th Win in 5 Tries; O'Donnell
Spears Decision in Relief Role

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Fox Cities Foxes are convinced that despite the May climatic shortcomings of their baseball headquarters, there's no place like home for developing a winning complex. The Foxes, who ranked last in the 6-team, Three-I league race when they came into Goodland field last Saturday, were in second place when they left for Cedar Rapids this morning.

Of the five games that made up their first home stand of the season, the Foxes won four — including a 10-9, 10-inning squeaker over Burlington Thursday night.

Teams Trade Places
A gathering of 462 paying pneumonia defiers watched Burlington shortstop Jack Evlans about a 2-out ground ball by Julian Castro to enable the winning run to score from second and allow the Foxes to trade places with the Bees in the standings. It required 2 hours, 55 minutes for the teams to reach a decision in the kind of weather (cold) that was typical of most of the home stay.

Tonight, Ted Sadowski, who owns two victories and the only two complete games on the Foxes' pitching staff, is scheduled to go against the Cedar Rapids Raiders.

Earns First Win
Oshkosh's Bill O'Donnell reeled in the third inning and went on to defeat Rochester, 10-5, and expand its lead in the Three-I league Thursday night.

Chuck Lindstrom of the Davenport Sox hit safely in his eleventh straight game. They combined four singles with four walks, a wild pitch and an error for the big third inning drive. Stover McIlwain allowed Rochester only four hits.

Collects 3 Hits
In other league games Green Bay collected only three hits but they were enough to beat Cedar Rapids, 5-3. Fox Cities defeated Burlington, 11-10, on an error in the tenth inning.

Cedar Rapids' Bob York had a no-hitter going for 5 1/3 innings at Green Bay but the Wisconsin team had the score tied at 2-all on two errors, two walks and a pair of sacrifice flies. The winning runs came on two singles, an error, a hit batsman and a wild pitch.

Green Bay 000 022 102-5 3 0
Yorks, Martens (6) and Cummings; Sedlak and Arnold. Home runs — Cedar Rapids: Garnett, Tremay.

The deciding tally in the tenth was the Foxes' only unearned run and probably was a form of poetic justice for five tarnished counters the Bees got in the fourth off starter Bill Felker.

Castro Gets 3 Hits
The winning tenth opened with Bob Tano beating out an infield hit off southpaw reliever Jim Brewer. "Tex" Taylor sacrificed him to center. Bob Van Dyke fled to center field. Castro hit a sharp ground ball right at Evans. The shortstop reached for the ball but it rolled between his legs and Tano sped home.

Others besides O'Donnell who contributed heavily to the Fox Cities win were "Sandy" Valdespine, who belted a bases-loaded triple in the 6-run fourth inning; Julian Castro, who continued his robust hitting with three safeties; Navarro Davis,

'Cool' Tom Bolt
Shoots 66, Leads
At Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark. —Tommy Bolt, self-styled coolest man on the course, shot a 6-under par 66 Thursday to take the first day lead in the Hot Springs Open golf tournament.

The 39-year-old golfing veteran, whose name has long been associated with fits of temper, was a composed competitor as he racked up six birdies to grab a 1-stroke lead over veteran Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., and youngsters Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, and Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Texas, who were in a 3-way jumble at 67.

"I've graduated from the temperamental stage," Bolt said. "I wasn't cool just because I made a 66 or didn't have a bogey. Certainly some of my shots were bad enough to get me aroused."

He says that the Foxes are a much better club than the Senators' Wilson (Class B) farm Palamar, who is single, was last season.

Meet Your Foxes
Palamar Sure He Will
Pull Out of Early Slump

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fox Cities outfielder Tom Palamar isn't putting all his eggs in one basket—career-wise.

Palamar is one of several Fox players with a college background to fall back on if dreams of reaching the baseball big time aren't realized.

Palamar is just one year short of his degree in education at Shepherd college, a state teachers school in Shepherdstown, W. Va. He is majoring in biology and physical education.

Finishes With Missoula
The 22-year-old Palamar, a native of Rahway, N. J., says that his slow start at the plate, (4-for-29) this spring is not unusual. "I always start the season in a slump," he says, "and then get better as the year goes along."

Signed by Washington after completing his junior year last June, Palamar was sent to Wilson in the Class B Carolina league where he hit about .100 for two weeks. He was sent next to the Class D Nebraska State league where he hit .250 in four games.

Palamar then finished the season with Missoula in the Class C Pioneer circuit, hitting .317 in about 65 games.

Palamar, who is single, was last season.

Five ARD Softball Leagues to Begin Play Next Week

3 Defending Champs Return; Top Hurlers to Work in American Loop

Three defending champions will be going in search of repeat titles when five Appleton Recreation department softball leagues open their 1958 seasons next week.

Defending titlist Appleton Coated Paper returns in the American Industrial circuit. Miller Electric (George Reichert) meets Interlake (Bob Diener) and Riverside (Jerry DeDecker) in the Church league. Association Industrial 1957 titlist August Winter has moved up to the National Industrial loop. Last year's Fraternal league champion, L.M.T.P., isn't back this season.

Not enough entries in a proposed Classic league were received to make the formation of such a loop worthwhile. Pitchers of "Classic league caliber" will not be allowed to pitch in the National Industrial and Association Industrial leagues but can play other positions. American industrial league teams can use the best pitchers possible, providing the pitcher is a steady employee at the concern he represents.

3 Outside Players

All teams will have the right to acquire three players from outside their concern to complete their rosters.

The National Industrial circuit opens play Monday. Opening game pairings send Kurz Root (Harry Albright, manager) against August Winter (Jim Hale), IPC (Marvin Filz) against Riverside (Bill Hamilton), and Police (Erv Lietz) against Pierce Auto (Phil Burmeister).

A Church league opener Monday evening matches All Saints (Ken Ligare) and St. Paul (Dick Hinz). Other Church loop opening games, on Tuesday evening, send St. Mary (Harry Kimball) against First Methodist (Keith Buxton), St. Joseph (Erv Hooyman) against First English (Erv Gauerke), and Zion (John Gurholt) against Faith (Roland Roberts).

Three Association Industrial contests kick off that season Tuesday night. Elm Tree (Dick Dorschner) plays United Grocers (Les Diezen), Brady

Senators Play Yanks Tonight for AL Lead

BY ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

In the stage play "Damn Yankees" 1958 was the year the Washington Senators, with the help of the devil, beat the New York Yankees for the American league pennant.

Well, this is 1958 and you can give the Senators a double take. They've been raising the devil since they haven't lost to the Yankees yet and are in second place, half a game behind the Bombers going into tonight's game at Yankee stadium.

Ramos vs. Turley
Pete Ramos, a 23-year-old righthander who last season first in the majors, with Dick Hyde in eight life-year-old lefty gave up four hits time decisions, takes a 2-0 rec- and struck out three, but walked to the mound tonight for the Senators. The Yankees plan Reno Bertoia's RBI single in to start Bob Turley (3-0).

The Senators closed in on hits in his 3 2-3 innings.

Braves Option Wise and Giggie To Wichita Club

Milwaukee —P—The Milwaukee Braves Thursday optioned utility infielder "Casey" Wise and righthander Bob Giggie to Wichita, Kan., in the Class AAA American association, leaving the club three over the 25-player limit.

Wise, the Braves' leading batter during spring training with a .455 average, was sent down on 24-hour recall. Giggie, a National Defense Service returnee, was optioned outright.

As an NDS player, Giggie did not count under the majors' player limit which goes into effect May 15. The Braves now have 28 players on their roster, not including injured outfielder Billy Bruton who may or may not rejoin the active list May 15. If he does return the club will have to get rid of four players by the deadline.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Harold Martin, Baseball-Pitching Priest, Dies

Canton, N. Y. —P—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Harold J. Martin, who considered baseball second only to religion as a force for good, is dead at 62.

The popular, baseball-pitching Roman Catholic priest died Thursday in the rectory of St. Mary church here.

Noted for his wit and wisdom, he had served parishes in northern New York for 40 years.

A Pontifical Mass of Requiem will be celebrated Monday in the church where he served. He will be buried in nearby Ogdensburg.

Baseball was much of his life. He helped to found the old Canadian-American league in 1935 and was its president until it suspended operations in World War II.

He organized the Border league also Class C, and the Northern New York league. He was co-owner and vice president of the Utica club in the Class A Eastern league until its sale to the Philadelphia Phillies in 1944.

Lawrence's Frosh Netters Drub Ripon, 8-1

Lawrence college's freshman tennis team drubbed Ripon, 6-1, here Wednesday in its first match of the season.

The highlight of six straight singles wins for the Vikes was Tom Zeuthen's 3-set conquest of Howie Myers, last year's team. The money he earned high school champion of Massachusetts was used to establish a children's playground in Ogdensburg.

Zeuthen, a former Neenah High school star, paired with Dick Westphal in 1957 to win the state prep doubles title. He starred in baseball at Boston college and Fordham university.

He played professionally at New Haven and in 1920 was sold to Albany in the Eastern league.

At the end of the season, he entered St. Mary seminary in Baltimore. The next year, at the urging of John McGraw, then manager of the New York Giants, he went to Olean as coach at St. Bonaventure university.

Although a major league career loomed, he chose to return to the seminary. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1923.

Pitched Several Years

Msgr. Martin played the game. Under the pseudonym "Doc O'Reilly," he pitched several years for an Ogdensburg of Howie Myers, last year's team. The money he earned high school champion of Massachusetts was used to establish a children's playground in Ogdensburg.

Jackie Robinson Calls Dodgers 'Deteriorated'

Blasts O'Malley For Accepting Urban League Award

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

New York — Jackie Robinson stuck to his guns in calling his old Dodger mates a "deteriorated team" today although a new light was thrown on the apparent reason for the blast—the award to Walter O'Malley for breaking the color line in baseball.

O'Malley, president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, declined comment.

Wesley Brazier, executive director of the Urban League, who made the award, said: "The award was presented to O'Malley for the entire Dodger organization and not to O'Malley individually for a single accomplishment."

It was this award which provoked a broadside from Robinson, the first Negro to play in the major leagues and now retired.

"That's preposterous," fumed Robinson, executive of a restaurant chain. "O'Malley had nothing to do with it. It was all Mr. Rickey's (Branch Rickey, former president of the Dodgers) idea and I don't believe O'Malley knew anything about it. In fact, he wasn't too keen about it in the first place."

In Pittsburgh, Rickey, chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Pirates, tried to calm the troubled waters.

"Jackie is right in that O'Malley had nothing to do with introducing Negroes into the major leagues," Rickey said, "but Walter wouldn't claim he did. He might have accepted the award to avoid embarrassment."

Robinson, who retired shortly after being sold to the Giants in December, 1956, was bitter in his attack on the Dodgers' present president.

"The Dodgers have deteriorated," he said, "and O'Malley must take the responsibility for that. Our team—the team that won so many pennants—was a Rickey team."

"He (O'Malley) cashed in on the team that was built into an all-powerful unit by Branch Rickey. Now that these players apparently can no longer deliver, he finds himself in a situation where he doesn't have adequate replacements."

The once-powerful Dodgers (9-13) are next to last in the National league.

Seals Stadium Almost as Good A 'Homer Haven' as Coliseum

San Francisco — In spite of legitimate boundaries, Seals fence into the left field bleachers, home of the San Francisco Giants, three over center and six into the right field bleachers. The Giants have hit 24 homers in the first 19 games of the season.

Last year 36 homers were hit in the first 19 games in the Coliseum—dimensions 278 feet in left field, 348 in right field and 410 in deep center.

"All you have to do row is get the ball high in the air," said one Giant bigwig. "The 250 foot left field screen wind does the rest. And the wind usually does it more in the same 19-game period for the right-handed swingers. Most cleared the 42-foot as a stiff breeze blows almost constantly toward the left field in the Giants' new home. 36 bleachers."

Annual Spring Game Expected To Draw 20,000

South Bend, Ind. — Some of Notre Dame's finest football players of the past will be on the Old Timers' team that squares off against the Irish varsity in the annual climactic game of spring drills Saturday.

More than 20,000 fans are expected to preview the 1958 Fighting Irish who will try to improve on a 7-3 record compiled last season.

Among those expected to play for the Old Timers are two former Heisman trophy winners, quarterback-fullback Paul Hornung of 1956 and end-fullback Leon Hart of 1949.

Announces Retirement Hart recently announced his retirement from the Detroit Lions. Hornung, who played last year, now is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

Others include quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, end Dan Shannon, halfback Joe Heap, fullback Don Schaefer and tackle Gus Cifelli.

Another Old Timer is halfback Dick Lynch, who scored the touchdown that upended Oklahoma 7-0 last fall. He graduates in June.

"We've never been able to work a potential first team as a unit all spring because of injuries," says Coach Terry Brennan.

Notre Dame is expected to open up next fall with a basic multiple T attack replete with slots, flankers, split ends and so forth. But scouts watching the spring game probably won't see much of anything new.

Brennan isn't prone to open his bag of tricks early.

Coach Johnny Druze and his staff have split the squad into two units of near equal strength. Each group is expected to have five lettermen in apace in starting roles, but at least six newcomers are scheduled to be in at the opening whistle.

The No. 1 spectator will be Druze himself. He has assigned assistants to handle the squads and will watch the game from the press box.

who made his first pro baseball hit and batted in a pair of runs; and "Addie" Hintze, who handled 12 chances in his usual artful style around second base. It was all Burlington in the home run department, but not even three of the 4-base blasts could save the Bees from their fifth defeat of the season. Third baseman Jim Woods produced a grand slammer in the fourth, while Evans and Manager Walt Dixon came up with solo jobs in the seventh and eighth, respectively.

Dixon, the veteran campaigner who gave Foxes' pitchers a going-over in the series, drove in the first two runs with a first-inning double. The Bees made it 3-0 in the third on two singles, a wild pitch and a walk and an infield out.

The Foxes got to starter Ed Donnelly for a cluster of four in the third. Felker and Tano both singled, and Taylor walked to fill 'em up. Van Dyke hit into a pitcher-to-catcher-to-first baseman twin killing, but Castro singled to score a run.

Hintze walked to load the bases. Bob Payne shelled a hit to left for two more runs and took second on the throw-in. Valdespino was walked intentionally.

Davis, a rookie who had gone hitless in 12 earlier trips this season, dropped his initial pop hit in short right, scoring the lead run.

Error Paves Way A throwing error by Payne opened the way for a Burlington 5-spot in the fourth with one out. Evans fanned, but Payne dropped the ball.

"Chick" recovered to throw to first but pegged it past Taylor. Evans taking second. Don Voigt was thrown out by Felker. Fred Caviness singled to center scoring Evans. Dennis Loudenbock singled and Dixon walked to create a full house. Woods broke up the traffic jam with a long swat over the center field fence.

Hintze popped out but a passcast ball on Gordie Massa permitted a run to score. Payne walked to fill the bases. Valdespino walked to score. Valdespino walked to score. Valdespino walked to score.

On a suicide squeeze, "Sandy" tore for the plate, and Davis plunked a perfect bunt toward the pitcher. The inning's sixth and final run was in.

No one has gotten the kind of mileage out of his hits as Valdespino. He has made only four hits yet has driven in eight runs—second on the clip only to Van Dyke, who has nine RBIs.

Half Million Families Buy Dishwashers in 1957

Primer Offers Wives, Husband Tips On How to Use Five Types of Units

Last year a record half-million U.S. families threw in the sponge and bought dishwashers. Probably an average of one in every four homes can be installed with only minor plumbing work. Further, but held back because of nagging doubts. Are dishwashers worth the money? Do they use too much hot water? When is the type is best?

A primer on dishwashers offers wives and dish - drying buying a dishwasher, the husbands advice on how to get the best washer for a particular use. According to the report, there are five main types of dishwashers: The under-the-counter model, which the water is pumped out. This is the cheapest because it has only a front panel, the rest being hidden when it is installed. The free-standing model. It has a separate - base cabinet, sink drain line. It usually requires a separate drain below the floor, and this sometimes costs more than the $20 saved by not buying a pump drain. The "stack-on" designed for use like a wall oven. The portable. This is a fa-cludes at least one wash with detergent, a series of rinses, and a drying period. They generally use more hot water than dishwashing by hand, but a typical dish machine uses only a quarter of the amount required by the average clothes washer.

Hot Water

Almost all dishwashers have some system for insuring hot water. The report says. Most models run tepid water down the drain for a while first, then begin filling when the water is hot. Most, too, have heating coils to keep the water hot during washing and rinsing, and to heat air for drying afterward. However, the report cautions that water over 160 degrees Fahrenheit can bake food stains into the dishes.

Dishwashers offer two loading methods. In the front-loading type, a hinged door opens to let two racks slide out individually. The top rack is usually for silver and other small pieces, the bottom rack for large pieces.

In the top-loading type, the two rack levels slide out in one piece, like a drawer. You reach through a hole in the top rack to load the bottom. "This can be quite a stretch," the report cautions, "for housewives with a short reach."

Capacity Figures

The report also warns prospective buyers not to be swayed too much by measurements of capacity. Even the smaller machines will usually handle an average family's breakfast and lunch dishes in one load, dinner in another. The big-capacity machine's ability to handle a full day's load at once is a "dubious advantage. Dried egg, oatmeal and milk develop a tenacious grip between dawn and dusk."

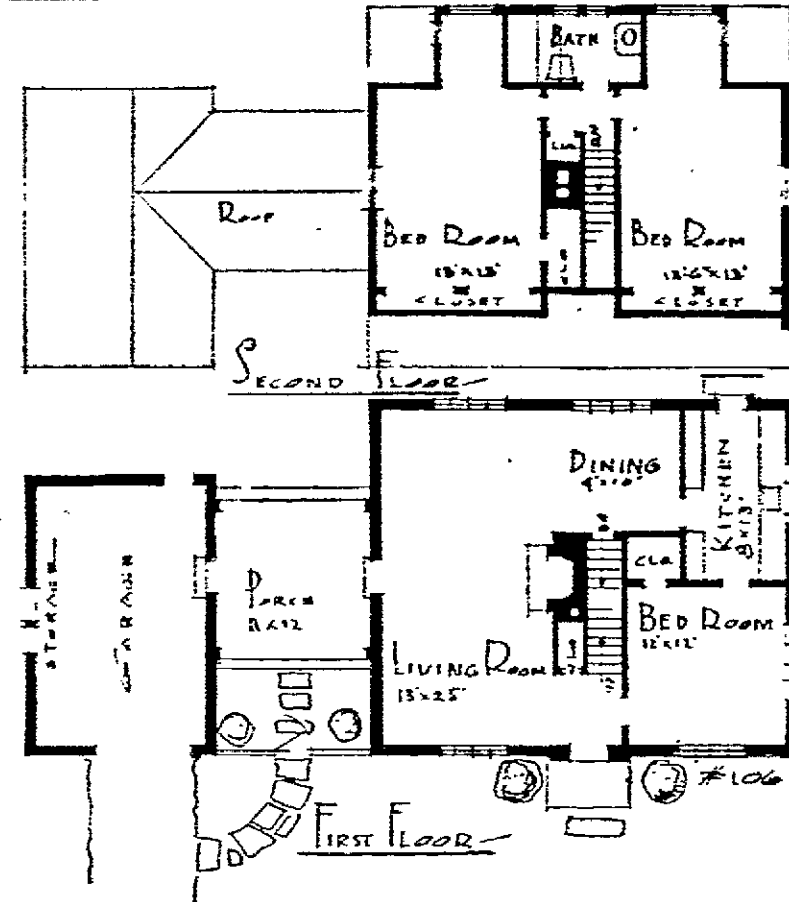

Furthermore, says the report, the capacity figures are often less important than the arrangement of dish - stacking space on the racks. If all dishes were the same size, the capacity figures would be a reliable indication of the number of pieces various machines can hold. But dishes vary widely in size and shape. Some modest-capacity machines can hold more big pieces, their makers claim, than machines rated larger.

There are two main kinds of washing action on the market, the report says. In one kind, an impeller that looks like a ship's screw splashes the water around. In the other, wash arms squirt jets of water on the dishes under pressure.

There is no agreement on which type is best, the report says. But it notes that the two market both use the pressure-jet principle.

Late Arrival

Marion, Ind. — Paul Pegden failed in attempts to get a pair of cigars from his brother Claude, after receiving a birth announcement saying Claude had become the father of twin boys. The announcement had been mailed in 1946.

This Cape Ann house will appeal to those folks who prefer conservative traditional design. It has all the modern requirements — large windows, colonial doorway, first floor bedroom, full basement and two bedrooms and a bath on the second floor. The home is versatile in that it is designed for expansion. The rooms are conveniently placed for living and sleeping areas. It also features a connecting porch and garage. For those people who prefer a 2-story structure to the long, low ranchers of today, this plan offers an ideal arrangement. Formula to Follow

Houses Can Cost Up to Three Times Amount of Family Income

BY JOHN O. B. WALLACE

At the end of their search for a home, husband and wife are confronted by this question — can we afford it?

The answer can be and often is, no. But how can you be sure it shouldn't be yes?

There's no hard and fast rule-of-thumb answer; but generally speaking a family can afford a house costing from two and a half to three times the family's gross annual income.

Not Rigid

Still, this is not a rigid formula because some families have no difficulty in financing homes worth three or more times their gross annual income, while others have trouble managing payments on a house costing less than twice their gross annual income.

Recent statistics of the federal housing authority, based on its experience with more than 3,400,000 government-insured loans, may help you to determine the house that's within reasonable range of your income.

The figures, compiled from the prices American families actually are paying for their homes, indicate that families with incomes under $5,000 a year are successfully buying homes from two and a half to three and a half times their gross annual income.

Advice From Bankers

On the other hand, those with higher incomes generally buy homes costing proportionately less.

For example, the FHA figures show families with an annual income of $3,000 are able to buy homes costing $9,000 — three times their yearly income — while those with an annual income of $12,000 buy homes costing about $18,000, or only one and a half times their income.

Sound advice on home - financing factors comes from such experts as the savings and mortgage division of the American Bankers association. Some factors, these experts say, may modify the formula of multiplying gross annual income by two and a half or three to get the right house price.

These factors include: The amount of savings available for the down payment, the size of the family and its expenses for food, clothing, medical care and other items, and what percentage of the cost of maintaining a house can be saved by family-done work.

Once the right price has been determined, another question looms for the home buyer — what's the right mortgage for my particular needs and pocketbook?

Your local banker can help you with this answer. He can give you valuable advice not only because of his wide experience in helping people with financial problems but also because of his knowledge of real estate values in his community.

In reaching a final decision on mortgage terms, experts of the American Bankers association point out, there are two major points to keep in mind: 1. Try and keep your interest costs down by borrowing as little as necessary instead of as much as you can. Although a big mortgage loan may look like a bargain, you're generally better off and will save more money in the long run if you make as large a down payment as possible.

2. Bear in mind that the quicker you pay back the loan, the less will be your financing costs in the end. A shorter mortgage period means, of course, larger monthly payments.

Buy Large Enough But if your earnings permit, the larger monthly payment will save you important money. For example, if you repay a $10,000 loan at 5 1/2 per cent in 15 years, instead of 25 years, the monthly payment would be $80.39 instead of $59.93. But the total amount saved by paying off the mortgage 10 years earlier is $3,508.80.

A final word of advice: Don't make the mistake of buying a house that your family may outgrow and that you would have to sell at a sacrifice. Shop for a house that's big enough for your family or one that can be expanded as family needs increase.

An increase in income later, of course, could permit you to buy a larger home. But protect the investment in the house you're buying now by making sure your family will be happy and comfortable in it at least for the foreseeable future.

Historic Flag Back In Sealed Case Again

Charleston, S. C. — P — The historic flag that flew over Fort Sumter when the first shots of the Civil war were fired was back in its hermetically sealed case today.

The 18 by 24-foot, shell - torn flag was taken out Wednesday for the first time in 93 years to be photographed in color by the National Park service. The photograph is for inclusion in a book on the American flag's evolution.

The flag was last unfurled here in 1865 when federal troops raised it in ceremonies marking the war's end.

Heating Device
May Take Jobs
Of Old Units
Grid Passes Heat
Through Porcelain
Panel to Surface

A new kind of radiant heating unit with a score of possible uses from heating homes to drying clothes will soon be on the market, and may take over jobs from older devices. Essentially, the unit is a panel of porcelain enamel with an electric heating grid fused to the back of it. Heat passes through the panel and radiates from the porcelain surface.

The panel can be made in virtually any shape or size, for almost any application where heat is required. Among its potential uses:

Room heater, warming a house faster, more evenly and possibly more cheaply than a conventional furnace;

Oven;
Water heater;
Clothes dryer, possibly costing as little as $25;
Cooking pot;
Heated bathtub.

The porcelain panel has several advantages over older kinds of heating units. First, it is cheap. The pair of heating grids needed cost only 25 cents.

Efficient Heater
Second, it is efficient. In a water heater, the heating panel would form the walls of the heater, completely surrounding the water. Thus, it would heat the water faster than a gas heater, where heat is applied only at the bottom.

Third, it is easy to produce in any shape—flat sheets for room heaters, helmet shapes for hair dryers, tank or box shapes for water heaters, clothes dryers, bathtubs. After the porcelain is shaped, the heating grid is fused on, following the contour of the porcelain.

Another advantage of the porcelain panel, the report says, is that it is safe. There is no danger of fire, as with conventional home furnaces. Nor is there any danger of electric shock, for the glass surface of porcelain is an excellent electrical insulator.

The first models are now warming radar technicians on the DEW line in northern Canada, according to reports. Others have been installed in U.S. homes and schools.

U. S. Cocktail Party Makes World Gains

Munich, Germany—That great American folk custom, the cocktail party, is gaining converts in Europe.

In West Germany the missionary work has been done largely by the American diplomats and military men who landed here after World War II. They had social obligations and frequently discharged them by inviting German officials and others to massive cocktail parties.

The Germans came filled with curiosity and left filled with Manhattans and Martinis. Some liked the idea and tried it on friends.

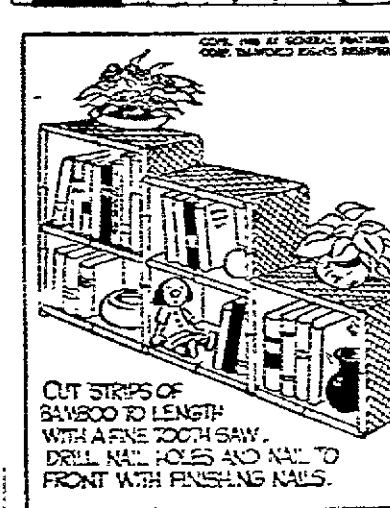

Munich's Merkur, one of West Germany's top newspapers, recently decided the time had come for a thorough explanation of the matter. I said:

"The psychology of the cocktail party cannot be separated from the psychology of the Anglo-Saxon world. The cocktail party has become a world fashion simply because it has proved to be a sure fire way of getting the Anglo-Saxon rulers of the world to talk."

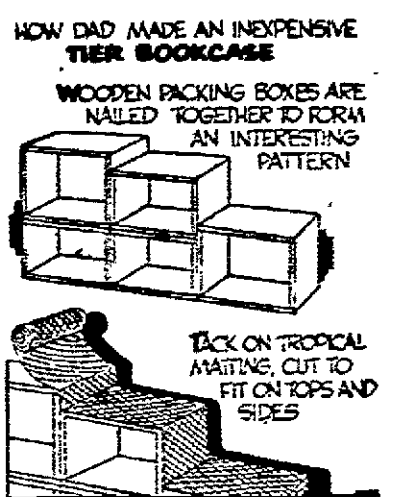

The Merkur then gave a brief rundown on how to act at a cocktail party:

"It is impossible to arrive too late at a cocktail party. The guests who are most respected are those who arrive when at least half of the other guests have already left."

Pre-Painting Work Needed in Home Projects

Walls Must Be Clean, Repairs Completed Before Job Starts

When decorating fever hits you during clean up-paint up-fix up time, wait a while before picking up your paint applicator. First of all, a few simple instructions should be followed to insure satisfactory results.

One of the first steps is an inspection of the surfaces to be coated. Cracks, large and small, should be taken care of immediately. Small hairline cracks can be filled with spackling material. Since it sets very rapidly, you will be wise to smooth the surface before the filling material is quite dry. This will reduce the amount of sanding necessary later.

In applying the filler, you can use a puttyknife, an old kitchen knife, or even your finger and thumb. Larger cracks will probably need to be filled with patching plaster. To prevent the plaster from falling out, it's a good idea to cut out a triangular channel in the plaster along the line of the crack—this channel should be narrow at the surface and wider inside. Then the plaster is fed into the narrow opening. Once the plaster is thoroughly dry, sandpaper the patches until they're even with the surface.

Dust all your walls with a dry mop. Where grease is present, it will be necessary to wash down the walls. All waxy or glossy surfaces should be sanded down with sandpaper.

Remove all "hardware" before you begin to paint. This includes light switch panels, light fixtures, door handles and panels on electric outlets.

Be certain to cover all furniture and your head before you start painting. It's a good idea to rub a protective cream onto your hands and arms—then you'll easily remove any paint splatters.

After you have read the manufacturer's instructions on the label and followed all of his suggested preparations, you'll be ready to begin painting.

These simple rules will make your painting easier and faster, and before you know it, you'll have a whole new room or house, just as spring-like as the budding outdoors.

Men Free to Master Destiny, Priest States

Freedom's Essence Is Rational Man, Father Ryan Says

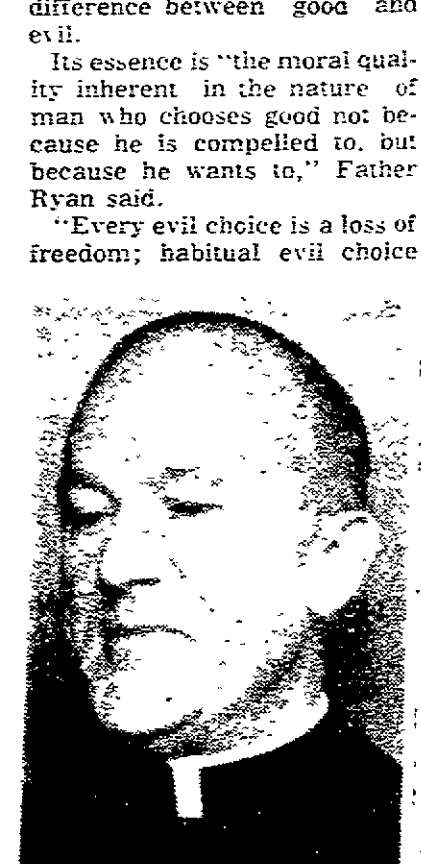

"History is unpredictable because men are free, because they have in their hands and hearts the power to master their own destiny," said the Rev. W. C. Ryan, president of Seton Hill college, before the students of Lawrence college Thursday.

Father Ryan discussed the quality of freedom, and said it was threatened not from some external enemy but by the American people's lack of knowledge of what freedom is, although they have become known the world over as its armed prophets.

Freedom, he said, is neither the license to do what you please or a kind of national indifference between good and evil.

Its essence is "the moral quality inherent in the nature of man who chooses good not because he is compelled to, but because he wants to," Father Ryan said.

"Every evil choice is a loss of freedom; habitual evil choice is slavery. Therefore the freest human being is the one least drawn to evil. A saint is the best example of a free man."

Father Ryan

Progressive Thing

Freedom is a progressive thing, the college president observed. A human grows up toward freedom as he grows from childhood to adulthood, disciplining his instincts and patterns into an order of freedom.

"All freedom is a result of a fight between ourselves and ourselves, yet it is one of the surest realities of human life," he remarked. "The love of the highest, whatever that highest may be, is the bond that makes freedom and guides it."

This philosophy goes against determinism of all sorts, he admitted — psychological determinism, historical determinism and Marx's economic determinism.

Man's largest power of crea-

A Porch, a Loading Platform, two cars and a wrecker figured in an accident at Center Valley about 12:30 Thursday afternoon. Harold R. Biebow, 42, route 2, Black Creek, returning his son, Daniel, 10, to school, lost consciousness as he turned north off a town road in Center Valley. The car struck a porch attached to Clarence Diermeier's machine shop and pushed it ahead of it. The roof struck a glancing blow to a parked car owned by Elmer Fassbender, route 1, Hortonville, when it fell off. The porch pushed the Center Valley Co-op wrecker into the co-op's feed mill loading platform, damaging the stairs. Biebow was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in Larry's ambulance. His condition was reported as good this morning. (Post-Crescent Photo) tion is the power to overcome his environment and overcome himself.

"Freedom is not the absence of law, but law is the framework of freedom," he went on. Man-kind has known the moral law only imperfectly in past centuries. Two thousand years ago no one recognized any moral wrong in slavery; even when slavery was abolished it was supplanted by the quasi-slavery of child labor, he stated. "The human conscience has now caught up with that, too," Father Ryan said.

In politics, he went on, freedom is not an abstraction but a series of rights. "That is the difference between the French and English approach to political freedom. The French thought of freedom in the abstract, and tore down their old regime. They have never built one to take its place. The English never talked about 'liberty' but 'liberties', and they worked to obtain certain concrete freedoms."

Government cannot survive without general agreement of its citizens and without its democratic charter, Dr. Ryan said. The political heretic who disagrees with the charter must be tolerated because without political heresy we "shall have no progress, no freedom." It is the function of colleges and universities to criticize the conduct of the state, for "if the state is not criticized by educational institutions, by whom will it be criticized?"

Even the heretic who attacks freedom should be protected on the theoretical level. Father Ryan said, "If in the name of safety—not in the name of dogma—he organizes and conspires, then he must be restrained under the law."

"The real danger to freedom is the danger from our own fears, complacencies and selfishness—our needs are tolerance, generosity and faith," he concluded.

Showers or Thunderstorms are expected in the area from the Gulf states to the Ohio, Tennessee and mid-Mississippi valleys tonight as well as portions of the southern Appalachians and the Carolinas. There will be cloudiness along the Pacific coast and possible showers in North Dakota. It should be cooler over the north and middle Atlantic states and parts of the southern plains and warmer in the central Rockies and the southeast. AP Wirephoto

Air's Bite Counteracts Spring Fever

The Fox Cities today were enjoying another beautiful day with just enough bite in the air to counteract spring fever. The weatherman sees no reason to change the picture for the weekend.

A mass of Canadian air invaded the state Thursday to drop temperatures. The Fox Cities maximum was 64 Thursday, while the overnight low shivered at 33. At 11 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 50.

No measurable precipitation resulted from the short showers early Thursday afternoon, although hail was reported in Menasha and Appleton. Hail of about one-quarter inch in diameter pelted Milwaukee's south side.

Hortonville Man Gets 1 to 5 Year Prison Term

Wayne Elliott, 27, Sentenced for Worthless Checks

Wayne Elliott, 27, Hortonville, this morning in municipal court, was sentenced to from one to five years in the state prison on three counts of writing worthless checks and to one year in the county jail on a fourth count. The terms will run concurrently.

Elliott was arrested Tuesday in a barn in the town of Ellington by Sheriff's Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Sgt. George Elise of the county police after he had earlier evaded a roadblock by taking a side road.

He was charged with writing $120 in worthless checks from April 24 to May 1. Two were for $50 each and two for $10 each. Three were on the Hortonville bank and one on the Shiocton branch of the Appleton State Bank. Elliott signed the name Ray McKeever to three of the checks and his own name to the fourth.

Criminal Record

He also was wanted for renting a car in Appleton April 30 and not returning it.

Elliott has a criminal record dating back to 1945. In that year he was arrested for burglary in Antigo and released. In 1946 he was again released on a burglary charge in Antigo and later was sent to the State School for Boys at Wausgesha. There he was paroled twice and it was revoked both times. In 1949 he was sent to the state reformatory for one to two years on two counts each of burglary and theft. He was paroled but again it was revoked. In 1954 he was sentenced to prison for one to three years on five counts of worthless checks and being a repeater. He was paroled in May of 1956 but it was revoked in March, 1957. Also in 1954 he was convicted of burglary in Portage county. He was sentenced to from two to three years in prison and was paroled a little over a month ago.

2 Youths Fined $15 for Being In Tavern

Two 17-year-old Kaukauna youths were fined $15 each this morning in municipal court on charges of being in a place where beer was sold without being with their parents or guardian.

William D. Rohlf, Highland avenue, and David A. Derus, 218 Brother street, admitted being in the Little Chicago bar earlier this week.

At the same time, Mary Ann Beckett, route 3, Kaukauna, pleaded innocent of permitting the boys in the bar. She posted $75 bond and the preliminary hearing was set for May 26.

In a similar type of case, Patricia Wilz, 19, 1719 N. Owalissa street, was fined $15 for being in the Country Bar, route 2, Appleton, a liquor tavern.

Paul Manthey, 64, route 2, Appleton, posted $50 bond after he pleaded innocent to allowing Miss Wilz on the premises. Preliminary hearing was set for May 26.

In another case, Clayton E. Templin, operator of Templin's Beer depot, 1117 N. Mason street, pleaded innocent of allowing two boys under 21 to be in the place. The two boys were fined $40 each Tuesday on charges of buying beer for minors. Templin posted $50 bond for the preliminary hearing June 20.

Admits Guilt After Change of Venue

Kenneth G. Gerrits, 22, route 1, West DePera, was fined $25 in municipal court this morning after he pleaded guilty of reckless driving.

Gerrits was arrested July 11, 1957, in Kimberly. He appeared in justice court there on July 18 and asked for a change of venue on grounds of prejudice. The case was transferred to municipal where he changed his plea to guilty. He was assessed six points against his driving record.

Fire in Auto

City firemen this morning put out a fire in the front seat of an automobile owned by Fred Sordahl, 302 N. Lawe street.

The car was parked in the 1500 block on W. Vinnebagg street. Mrs. Sordahl said damage to the cushion was slight.

A spark from a cigarette started the fire, firemen said.

Allis-Chalmers Cuts Dividend

Milwaukee —P— Directors of Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. cut the firm's quarterly dividend on common stock from 50 to 25 cents a share Wednesday.

A spokesman for the board of directors said the cut was deemed prudent in view of current economic conditions, but he added that the reduction in a single quarter should not indicate pessimism about the firm's future.

Allis-Chalmers had been paying dividends of 50 cents four times a year on common stock.

The latest dividend will be paid June 30 to shareholders of record at the close of business June 2.

Allis-Chalmers manufactures farm implements, heavy industrial equipment, construction machinery and electrical devices.

President Harold P. Taylor said the unit will be an addition to the firm's present Weston steam electric plant, which has a capacity now of 60,000 kilowatts.

When finished in 1960, the addition will raise the utility's system generating capacity to a half-million kilowatts, Taylor said.

The overnight news was hardly bullish, including reports that auto sales in April failed to respond to seasonal factors and that total employment in manufacturing lines dropped between mid-March and mid-April. But Wall Streeters reported that considerable investment money, notably from institutions, is available for stock purchases and this continues to firm the market.

Illinois Central rose about a point. Fractional gains were made by Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio.

U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet were up major fractions. Bethlehem's gain was smaller. Both International Harvester

Two Foreign Students Will Enroll at AHS

Girl From Pakistan, Boy From Italy
To Attend Classes Here Next Year

Tow foreign students will attend Appleton High school as seniors next year in the fourth year of the foreign student exchange program. Coming here will be Kamal Aspy Cavina, a girl from Karachi, Pakistan, and Alessandro Camino, a boy from Piacenza, Italy.

Both are qualified to take up work in the United States and both have a command of the English language. Miss Cavina completed her final examination for secondary school in March, but Camino will not be taking his final examination until June, 1960, after he has completed another year of schooling in Italy.

Miss Cavina has lived all of her life in Karachi where her father is a dentist. She has studied English 10 years. Besides her knowledge of English, she is able to speak two other languages, Gujarati and Urdu. Both of which are Indo-European languages. Courses in which she is interested are English, speech, home arts, shorthand, typing and American history. She plans to be a teacher. Her extra-curricular interests are tennis, badminton and swimming.

While Kamal Cavina is in Appleton, she will live with the Donald Denoyer family, whose daughter Linda will be a senior at AHS next year.

Alessandro Camino, who will be known here as Alexander Camino, comes from Piacenza, a large city in the northern part of Italy. His father is a construction engineer. His interests are in mathematics and the sciences, since he plans to become a chemical engineer or go into nuclear physics. His other interests are in athletics. Though he knows the English language, he has little proficiency in other languages.

Camino will live with the Clem Quella family whose son, Tom, will be a senior next year. Mary Quella, who will be graduated in June, took part in the summer exchange program and lived in Europe for two months last summer.

During the other three years of the foreign student exchange program sponsored by the American Field Service, AHS has had students from three countries. During the first year of the program, Henry Urreta, of Spain, was a member of the

Major Tax Cut Seems Likely in Near Future

Also Sees Administration Drifting
Closer to Slashes as Recession Help

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington—Reluctantly, unhappily, belatedly, the Eisenhower administration now seems likely to drift into acceptance of a major tax cut almost for want of anything better to do.

The evidence for this forecast is largely circumstantial and atmospheric. But it is nonetheless rather convincing. Taking the items in order, there are the circumstances first of all, that will make action to cut taxes decidedly difficult to avoid.

Some sort of tax bill must be offered this year, for the quite simple reason that some of the Korean-war born taxes reach their automatic cut-off point June 30. Unless legislative action is taken, the corporate profits tax will then drop from 52 to 47 per cent; the automobile excise tax will be cut in half, and a whole series of other excises will also be reduced, including those on liquor and tobacco. A revenue loss of about three billion will be the result.

As a practical matter, congress will never permit these important reliefs to business without offering at least equal tax cuts to the mass of voters.

Reduction Unavoidable

Even if the decision is to maintain existing tax levels, certain reductions will be almost unavoidable. With the automobile industry still in bad trouble, for instance, there will be a tremendous drive to drop the auto excise tax. Again, the plight of the railroads is grave, and there will be another powerful drive to drop the present taxes on passenger tickets and freight charges, even although they do not expire this year.

Superficially, the argument about the right remedies (or lack of remedies) for the depression is still going on in the same old way. The most determined and effective champions of the opposing viewpoints are still the two men who fought the big battle over government economic policy in the 1933-34 recession. Neither is any longer officially connected with the government.

Dr. Arthur Burns, former chairman of the council of economic advisors, charged into town again last week, to warn that the depression is not "flattening out" as the president keeps saying and to plead for prompt action to stimulate the economy. He followed close on the heels of former Sec. of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, who was peddling precisely the contrary opinions.

Faces Longer

As for the government economists, conspicuously including the council of economic advisors, their faces are getting longer and longer. Far from sharing the president's confidence that the economic curve is "flattening out," they are frankly worried about a sharper downturn. One factor that is causing much worry is the clear possibility of some big, confidence-destroying reversals, especially in the railroad industry. Another such factor is the unemployment total will surge upwards toward 6 million, again tending to destroy confidence, when the college year ends in June.

For all these reasons, although the white house and that have spoiled his appetite for well-balanced meals. Poor appetite in the summer and faulty eating habits may ward the tax cut is growing result from uncontrolled use of stronger by the day. The president himself has indicated that a tax cut is the best economic stimulant if any stimulant must be given. Thus he will find it very hard to fight the drift, if a sudden business upturn does not unexpectedly rescue him.

Meanwhile, unhappily, the stimulant is also losing effectiveness. For as Dr. Burns has said, a tax cut "is only a good device to fight a mild recession while confidence is still strong" (Copyright, 1958)

Doctors List Eating Rules For Summer

Air Conditioning,
TV, Snacks Prove
Bad for Children

Chicago — Television, air conditioning, and eating between meals have combined to produce a new hot weather set of symptoms among children, two Dallas pediatricians say.

They are characterized by the "pale, flabby, tired child" who has gained excessive weight during the warm weather because he has stayed in an air-conditioned house watching television most of his waking hours and has indulged in frequent between-meal snacks that have spoiled his appetite for well-balanced meals.

A procedure for avoiding these problems was outlined by Dr. Floyd A. Norman and Edward L. Pratt in a special report on feeding children during hot weather, prepared for the American Medical Association council on foods and nutrition. They first pointed out that hot weather imposes no special dietary requirements for children. They need the same well-balanced diet they always need along with extra water. They do not need additional quantities of salt. Only adults under conditions of great physical activity associated with extremely large outputs of sweat need sodium chloride tablets.

The doctors pointed out that it is unwise for adults to condition children to dislike hot weather or to fast summertime food facts on them.

Summer Rules

Their rules for maintaining good nutrition and eating habits among children are:

The habit of vigorous outdoor activity should be continued or encouraged. Children do not want hot weather unless they are conditioned to dislike it.

Cool, but not cold, drinks are best and for the most part, they should be used to quench thirst.

Between-meal foods and high-calorie drinks may have to be controlled.

A short-term "snack" plan due before meals may increase the child's appetite.

Limiting of high-calorie foods such as peanut butter and ice cream may be necessary.

The large and better balanced meal may best be served in the evening when the temperature is lower.

All of the usual measures and cautions for developing good eating habits should be continued. These are of the weather.

They noted that if infants and children eating well-balanced diets do not tolerate oral narcotics they should be examined for illness rather than changing their diets.
